You Can Do Your Bit Without Trying To Follow The Crowd

By RUTH MILLETT

There has been so much talk about "Woman's role in the war" that women are getting the wrong idea. They seem to think that they all have to follow the same pattern, or not be doing their share.

School girls, working women, mothers of small children, and grandmothers who aren't working in defense plants seem to think they have to contribute to their country's war effort in the same way.

They believe that only by enrolling in defense courses and signing up for defense work can they do their part.

They are wrong in thinking that, for there are many ways in which women can help in defense besides joining defense classes and organizations.

Help Relieve The Labor Shortage

School girls can help at home or get vacation and part time jobs that will help relieve the labor shortage. They can plan their education so that they will fit into jobs where they are needed most.

Women, supporting themselves and contributing to the support of families, are helping the war effort in their daily jobs. They not only are not dependent on a man for livelihood, but they are holding down jobs that may release men for active service.

Mothers of small children are making a worthwhile contribution when they are looking after their children. If they don't do it themselves, someone will have to do it, and it doesn't make sense for a woman to hire an able-bodied girl to look after her children and do her housework while she does volunteer defense work.

Women can help in many ways to win the war. The only ones who aren't helping at all are those who aren't using their time productively.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, May 29—Wanted: A GOP money-raiser.

National Chairman Joe Martin is quietly hunting for someone to replace steel magnate Ernest Weir as finance chairman of the Republican national committee.

It wasn't announced at the time, but Weir formally quit at the recent national committee meeting in Chicago. He gave as his excuse lack of time due to war work, but insiders say the real reason was personal dislike of Martin. It's no party secret that Weir and oilman Joe Pew, Pennsylvania Republican boss,

Third to Engineer and thence to the cemetery.

The policemen in Washington, D. C., will be garbed in white duck vests with brass buttons during the summer. The white vest innovation is to be tried in consequence of the complaints of the men against being obliged to keep their blouses buttoned during the hot summer months.

wanted to eliminate Martin as national chairman.

If personal dislike was the reason for Weir's resignation, the feeling was mutual. On his part, Martin never was fond of the Pittsburgh steel mogul. However, in the interest of the party Martin was willing to work with him, but if Weir didn't want to play, that was okay with Martin.

Up to last week, Martin thought he had found an ace money raiser in Colby Chester, 52-year-old board chairman of General Foods Corporation. An admirer of Martin, Chester tentatively agreed to take the job after a long talk between them.

But last week he sent his regrets, saying that rationing, price control, and loss of key assistants forced him to devote all his time to his giant company. General Foods' president, Clare Francis and advertising manager, Charles Mortimer are dollar-a-year WPB officials.

However, GOP insiders say there was another factor behind Chester's declination.

According to them, he put the matter up to Mrs. Joseph Davies, wife of Roosevelt's friend, the former U. S. ambassador to Russia and to other big company stockholders. They advised against taking the Republican post.

uished service citation for America's vast railroad shops and the labor employed in them. They are going to work on ships, munitions, war equipment — on a 48-hour week, instead of the 40 hours they could have had if they had insisted on it. Further, the workers are foregoing overtime pay, and management all profits on war business.

The deal was engineered by the war department's industrial-labor relations section, with the full cooperation of the workers and management.

Railroad shops always have worked a 48-hour week. Most other similar industries are geared to the 40-hour week. Had the rail shop unions insisted, they probably could have got overtime pay above 40 hours. But they waived it on the condition that their action would not be used as a precedent to batter down labor standards in other industries. The war department readily agreed.

"A few more enlightened agreements between government, industry and labor such as this one," said one top army official, "and we will have the labor-baiters in and out of congress on the ropes."

Lindbergh's Friend

Very quietly and with no fanfare, Col. Truman Smith, one-time friend of Charles A. Lindbergh, has come back into the war department. Although never fully published at the time, a very significant story lies behind his exit.

For some time before the war, Col. Smith was U. S. military attache in Berlin. There he got to know the German army better, perhaps, than any other U. S. army officer. This was partly because some years before he had befriended several German officers when they came to Fort Benning to study U. S. military methods.

As a result of Col. Smith's knowledge, the U. S. army had an excellent insight into German military preparations.

While in Germany, Col. Smith became a close friend of Lindbergh, and later when Lindbergh used to visit Washington, he sometimes stayed at Smith's home.

This came to the attention of Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, who indignantly reported it to the White House, together with a strong suggestion that Col. Smith be court martialled.

However, Chief of Staff Marshall and Assistant Secretary of War Johnson stepped in, warned that a courtmartial would have had repercussions; so instead Col. Smith was retired.

All this was a year before Pearl Harbor. But since the United States entered the war, Col. Smith has come back again. Officially, he is in military intelligence. But actually—though Justice Frankfurter doesn't know it—he is giving his knowledge of Germany to the war plans division of the general staff.

He liked Dorothy Lamour's singing and Charlie McCarthy, and appreciated very much the sports reports. They were all swell, he said, but what he really would like to hear was the voice of his dog, Queenie.

So the radio branch sent sound recording equipment out to the soldier's farm home in Indiana and in a few days he will be hearing the voice of Queenie herself.

Budget Czar

Few people outside the government realize how all powerful has become the director of the budget. In fact even the Undersecretary of War, Judge Patterson, did not realize it until the other day.

He planned to publish a magazine called "Fire Power" to circulate in factories to inspire the workers to faster production, show how the war must be won in the factory as well as at the front.

But when the first issue of "Fire Power" was ready for the press, Harold Smith, efficient, all embracing director of the budget wrote that it was his job, since 1922, to decide whether such projects could be started, and that he hereby decided against it.

Undersecretary Patterson was a bit puzzled as to why the budget bureau should rule on a vital question of morale for wartime production. But finally, after clutering up the files with a lot of official correspondence, he managed to remove the red tape and the war department was permitted to publish its magazine.

Hikers Confess To A Slaying

KANSAS CITY, May 29—(P)—A bloody automobile caused the arrest late Thursday of two youthful hitchhikers from Rochester, N. Y., and Capt. J. F. Shaw of the Missouri highway patrol said they disclosed the highway murder of a Kansan who gave them a lift in his car.

Confirmation of the slaying was made Thursday night when Capt. Shaw reported that the sheriff of Falls City, Neb., and two Missouri highway patrolmen had found the body of a man believed to be Stuart Smith, Salina, Kas.

The body was discovered by Sheriff Irvin Gates of Falls City, and his deputy Vern Atkins. Alongside a highway four and one-half miles south of Rulo, Neb. It was lying several feet from the end of a culvert and was half covered with weeds. The body was taken to Falls City.

KANSAS CITY, May 29—(P)—Capt. J. F. Shaw of the Missouri highway patrol said late Thursday day two hitch-hikers had confessed slaying a motorist, believed to be Stuart Smith of Salina, Kas., and dumping his body from his car in northeastern Kansas or southeastern Nebraska.

Shaw said the two were arrested following the discovery by state troopers that the car they were driving bore blood stains. They identified themselves to the highway patrol as Frank Kejers, 23, and a brother, Joseph, 21, both of Rochester, N. Y.

Shaw said the car in which they were arrested carried Kansas license No. 14-5143, and was issued to the Oehlert tractor and equipment company of Salina.

The state highway patrol captain said the youths told him: They were signaling for a ride and were picked up last night near Salina. They killed the driver, drove his car, with the body in it, through the night and dumped it out along the highway either in northeast Kansas or southeast Nebraska.

Shaw said sheriffs and other officers in southeast Nebraska and northeast Kansas had been asked to search for the body.

Officials of the Oehlert company at Salina said the man slain undoubtedly was Stuart Smith, a service man employed by the company, who had been at Norton working a week on a tractor service job.

He did not return to his home at Salina over the week-end. His employers desired to discuss a matter with him Thursday and telephoned to Norton. They said they were told Smith had not appeared for work that day.

We'll Keep The Faith

Tomorrow is Memorial Day. For the seventy-fifth successive year we have set aside the 30th of May in memorial to those Americans who offered their lives, in one war after another, to establish and maintain in this world a sanctuary for democracy.

Up to the bombing of Pearl Harbor, more than seven million men had fought in American uniforms, first in order to form a more perfect union and later to secure the blessings of liberty to themselves and their posterity.

Almost another million went through hell in the Confederate buttrenut, fighting for what seemed to them the essence of true democracy. They lost, but out of their sacrifices the integrity, the sincerity and the vigor of our federal union were strengthened.

Now another two to three millions are in uniform. Three times as many more may yet be called from their homes and sent onto the world's battlefields, once more to preserve the blessings of liberty for us who stay at home.

All that we have today, and all that we are as Americans, we owe to the gallant millions who, from 1775 through 1918, held liberty to be dearer than life or creature comforts.

But for them we should not have acquired our many blessings, tangible and intangible.

Our industrial, commercial and material supremacy, which have made even our poor seem prosperous by other nations' standards did not spring full blown from the magic soil of America.

True, that soil was rich and generous, but so is Russia's.

The abundance which we achieved was a product of democracy, of a way of life which gave to every man privileges and opportunities and the incentives which long have been the world's envy.

We say this not to boast but rather to emphasize that our democracy, the cornerstone of every thing we hold dear, was bought with blood, guarded with blood, and preserved with blood down through the generations.

Again we are required to offer supreme sacrifices to assure that those people who could not create their own working democracy shall not, by force of arms, deprive us of ours.

To the millions of soldier heroes of past wars whose graves we decorate, and to those other millions who still survive to march to the cemeteries where their comrades lie, let us offer vocally a pledge that they should not and do not really need:

We, too, are ready to keep the faith of our fathers, whatever the cost.

THE ENEMY STRIKES

CHAPTER XV

TALCOTT accepted the print and as he scanned it his bewilderment grew. The print was a copy of a creased and rather smudgy original. It was the head-and-shoulders likeness of a man in uniform, a Uhlan officer of the first World War. His head was closely shaved or bald. Under a bulging forehead his eyes held the fixed, glassy stare of unquestioned authority. His chin was short and square, his lips thin and cruel. He didn't look like Struthers; he didn't look like anybody Talcott could remember ever having seen.

"That's a photograph of Baron Gerhardt von Stampf," the slow, musical voice said. "A brilliant and unscrupulous agent. He speaks five languages as fluently and effortlessly as if each was his mother tongue. He was operating in Brazil until the recent shakeup there. We have reason to believe that he may be in the Islands."

"It certainly isn't Struthers," Talcott said.

"I don't like to think what a Nazi agent could do if firmly established nearby. We'll check on him thoroughly. And now," the cloudiness left his gray eyes as he turned to MacDowell, "you claim to be employed by the Standard Detective Agency, that your name is Patrick MacDowell and you are a resident of New York. You have your license?"

MacDowell was taken completely aback. He didn't recall having made any claims to this disconcerting individual; didn't remember that he had even opened his mouth. He fumbled through pockets and produced a card with photo attached, a motor vehicle permit and a few letters.

"These look all right. I want to know where you met Halsey and Struthers and what evidence you had as to their authenticity."

This man! How the devil did he know about Halsey when his name hadn't been mentioned? "Why, I met Halsey in Struthers' office. It was Struthers called the boss and asked for me. I worked with him before."

"Struthers was known to you?"

"Absolutely."

"And Halsey?"

"Halsey took me to Federal Chemical's offices. Right straight in to th' president's private secretary."

"And the secretary instructed you to arrest Talcott if the auditor requested it?"

"That's th' idea."

"You didn't talk to anyone else at Federal Chemical?"

"No."

THE man at the desk frowned. "Talcott notified the Company he was leaving; your call came from the auditor, not the company. A man whom you had just met in the auditor's office took you to the secretary. Have you any evidence that Halsey is actually an employe of Federal Chemical?"

MacDowell gasped. "Huh? What more would you expect? He took me right in!"

"Anybody can go right in if they've got clearance," the gray-eyed man smiled faintly. He turned to Talcott. "Did you know Halsey before?"

"Only through letters."

"Which could have been sent without the knowledge of the President. This may be a conspiracy to defraud the Company, or—" He paused, searched through his drawer again, found a blue sheet. He said, "You operate a distillation plant for the production of nitric acid. How much oil does it consume?"

"About a barrel a day."

"How much stock do you ordinarily carry?"

"Two months' supply."

"Any idea why Struthers would order five hundred barrels to be shipped immediately?"

Talcott lifted his eyebrows. "Five hundred barrels! Not unless he was afraid priorities would shut off his supply."

The man at the desk shut himself behind his eyes. One, two, three minutes passed in which his fingers drummed restlessly. Then, sighing, he said, "We'll watch it. And I suggest that you watch yourself. There can be only two possible answers to the auditor's conduct. I'm rather hoping, for the sake of all of us, that he's trying to take the Company for a ride. Good luck, Bill."

"HOW'D that guy know about me?" MacDowell demanded when they again faced Emancipation Park. "What did he ask all them questions for? How'd he know about Halsey? Nobody said nothing to him about Halsey, not unless you got to him while I was asleep. And who is he anyway?"

Talcott grinned. "I'm beginning to understand why Struthers picked you for this job."

"Huh? And what's how much oil you use got to do with all this, I'd like to know!"

"If I knew all the answers I wouldn't be going back with you."

MacDowell lapsed to muttering. It sure was mysterious. Walk up an alley and climb a flight of stairs and there, in a little room 600 miles from home, was a guy who knew all about you. Who knew all about Halsey before his name was even mentioned. A guy who asked dumb questions about how many barrels of oil it took to run a still. A guy who talked about international intrigue; as if anybody would want to get control of a stinking desolate hunk of rock like Abbas Island.

Suddenly a look of positive brilliance burst from MacDowell's face. "Hey! That guy!" he gasped. "That guy is a—"

But Talcott was yards away, striding toward the waterfront. Briskly heading for a crowd gathered on the quay, a group of natives and tourists and shopkeepers and sailors. The crowd was growing in volume. People were running to it across the small Park; running men brushed past MacDowell.

Down there a woman screamed; the crowd bulged and parted momentarily and MacDowell saw a uniformed officer pushing them back from the launch that belonged to Federal Chemical Company's Plant Number Six. Another uniformed officer was in the launch, bending down. Well, maybe the cops could tell him something. Maybe they could tell him about the guy in the room that knew so much.

He had to run to keep up to Talcott. When they reached the crowd he saw that the people in it were scared. They were staring at the launch and the bent-down officer, jostling each other in their effort to see.

Beneath its tan, Talcott's face was white as milk. "What's wrong here?" he demanded so sharply that the officer looked up.

"This your boat?" the officer demanded.

"I'm in charge of it."

"Then you're the one we want. Walter, take the gentleman over to the Fort."

The officer stood up, and MacDowell, crowding close, saw Sebastian. Stretched out in the bottom, he was, his bandaged arm covering his face. Beneath the blade of his left shoulder was a glistening dark stain from which a knife had protruded.

Tax Evasion To Bring Ire Of Treasury

Assessments On Many Firms And Corporations Being Revised

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP)—

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau declared Thursday night that some corporate officials had engaged in "particularly unpardonable attempts to escape war-time taxation," and he announced that the treasury was revising the tax assessments of offending corporations to force payment of taxes.

Morgenthau read a detailed statement to the joint house and senate committee on internal revenue taxation at an unusual night session, and asked the legislators to back up the treasury effort.

He listed seven unidentified instances in which he said company officials tried to cut down corporation incomes and excess profits taxes by paying themselves, relatives or friends, excessive salaries or other sums. He added, that he was inclined to announce the names of the corporations and officials but would leave that decision to the committee.

The instances occurred during 1941 before the United States entered the war, but Morgenthau said that made little difference because the country was engaged in the defense program at the time.

"An attempt to escape lawful taxes while we were actually at war would be only a slight degree blacker than an attempt to escape taxes which would pay for arming and equipping our army and navy when we stood in imminent danger of attack," his statement said.

Revised Assessment

In one case, he said, the owner of a company making an airplane part hired himself as the company's sales representative and paid himself $1,656,000 in salary and commissions. The treasury has revised this company's tax assessment and is asking for an additional $1,117,000 in income taxes.

In another case, he continued, a corporation asked for a tax deduction because of $1,900 paid for football tickets, $14,000 for banquets and $4,000 for photographs of social functions.

In another instance the two owners of a firm making aviation devices were said to have increased the royalty they charged their own company for the use of patents from $87,000 in 1939 to $1,179,000 in 1941.

Morgenthau described other cases as follows:

A manufacturer of forgings increased the salaries of a group of employees who were stockholders or relatives of stockholders by 523 per cent. For the year 1941 alone, the treasury disallowed $568,000 of salaries to this group.

The head of another company, making tools and dies, last year paid himself, his wife and his brother $128,000 in salaries, while dividends of the firm amounted only to $100,000.

The son and daughter of the principal stockholder in a company making equipment for plane pilots got salaries of $7,500 each although they were just out of school.

Morgenthau explained that in each of these instances, and in others which the treasury was prepared to list, companies had paid unusual amounts for salaries or other purposes in order to make the profits of the companies seem smaller, and therefore subject to smaller federal taxes.

Inflate Expenses

"In every instance," he said, "the method used by the taxpayer was to inflate expenses with the evident purpose of avoiding normal and excess profit taxes of corporation earnings. The devices used included the payment of excessive salaries, the distribution of unearned bonuses and the payment of unreasonable sums for purported services to persons closely connected with the managers of the companies involved."

Saying he hoped instances of this type were isolated and not typical of the majority of American corporations, Morgenthau said the treasury was taking action in these cases. In the first place, the detailed auditing of corporation tax returns is being speeded up by nearly a year to permit early detection of tax evasion, and the treasury is using existing legal powers to disallow unreasonable deductions from corporate returns.

He added that while a corporation might be forced, under this procedure, to pay taxes on some of the profits disbursed as salaries, for instance, no reduction in taxes would be permitted the officials who received the salaries.

Describing the procedures by which other corporation returns will be judged, Morgenthau said these standards would guide the treasury.

1. Salaries and bonuses—"Increased pay or extraordinary bonuses will be disallowed unless the taxpayer proves that they were 'for services actually rendered and are reasonable x x x'."

2. Rents, royalties etc.—"Any shareholder should be entitled only to a fair return on his investment in the property which he permits the corporation to use."

3. Pension funds—must be bona fide and not a disguise for extra salaries.

4. Repairs—"We shall disallow such deductions where it is not shown that the expenditures are in fact for repairs instead of for improvements which should be capitalized."

5. Fees to promoters — the treasury will be on guard against deductions "for payments which are against public policy." While Morgenthau did not explain this reference, his statement hinted at a check-up on lobbyists and solicitors purporting to be able to get government contracts through influence is the capital.

6. Advertising—deductions are permissible when "ordinary, necessary and bear a reasonable relation to the business x x x. This is not intended to exclude institutional advertising in reasonable amounts or good will advertising to influence the buying habits of the public if such expenditures are extravagant and out of proportion to the size of the company or to the amount of its advertising budget in the past, or if they are not directed to public patronage which might be expected in the future, such payments will be disallowed."

Allied Planes Raid War Bases

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, FRIDAY, May 29.—(AP)—General MacArthur's air forces destroyed four Japanese planes and damaged more than five others in attacks on Rabaul, New Britain, and Lae, New Guinea, and during a sharp sky fight over Port Moresby, the allied base in Southern New Guinea, it was announced officially today.

Two Japanese naval Zero fighters were shot down and others were damaged severely out of a force of 20 which attacked Port Moresby. Two allied planes also were lost in the dogfighting, the communique said.

The military camp at Rabaul was raided last night and three large fires were left blazing there. Three Japanese planes attempting

Twenty Cars In Derailment Near Stover

Train On Rock Island Piles Up In A Wreck

STOVER, Mo., May 29.—Twenty cars of a west bound Rock Island freight train were derailed at 5:20 o'clock Thursday morning three and a half miles west of Stover opposite the Dr. J. D. Kueck farm home.

Although no official announcement had been made reaching here as to the cause of the wreck it was said to have been due to a broken flange on a wheel under one of the freight cars.

The engine pulling the train and six cars remained on the tracks but other cars were piled up promiscuously side by side and some on top of each other in one instance three cars being piled up together.

The cars were loaded with merchandise, heavy construction materials and several of them with beer both in cases and kegs.

The wreck throughout the day and early part of the night attracted an enormous crowd to watch six section gang crews and wrecker workers busily engaged in clearing the tracks to get the line open, which, it was said, would be early Friday morning.

The only person injured was a transient said to have been riding one of the derailed cars and he was but slightly hurt leaving the scene before his name was secured by the early arrivals there.

The loss was variously estimated at from $100,000 to $200,000. As a result of the blocking of the line trains were detoured.

Cars Are Damaged In Colliding Thursday

Two motor vehicles were slightly damaged Thursday afternoon when they collided on Ohio avenue. A Chevrolet coupe being driven north on Ohio by J. W. Lewis, of Colo., struck the right side of a Chevrolet sedan also being driven north on Ohio by Mrs. Valeda Foster, 1301 Boonville.

The left fender of Lewis' car and the right fender of Mrs. Foster's automobile were damaged.

Lest We Forget

As we pause today in memory of the boys who gave their lives in the last war, it might be well to contemplate for a moment the outcome of this war . . . and the part we must play.

The part the uniformed men are playing is generally accepted as being very clear and well-defined. However, the role we civilians must play is just as clear . . . and just as important.

It is our duty to provide our armed forces with guns, tanks, planes . . . and all material necessary for war. We . . . you and I . . . can only make this possible by purchasing War Stamps and Bonds

Have you contributed your share? For your convenience we have War Stamps and Bonds in our office, or ask for them in any department.

Latham Woman Ends Her Life

A week after she was rescued from a cistern, Mrs. Veta Bayne, 67, was found hanging from the rafters of a smoke house early Thursday at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brady, 15 miles southwest of California, Mo.

Mrs. Bayne was a member of a prominent Latham family. Her husband, the late Charles Bayne, died about 10 years ago.

Mrs. Bayne had been visiting her daughter for the last two weeks. She left the home about 8 o'clock Thursday morning, Mrs. Brady told officers, and when she did not return a half-hour later, a search was made. The son-in-law found her body in the smoke house.

Sheriff Walter Haldiman acted as coroner in the absence of Dr. Kenyon Latham. Mrs. Bayne had been in ill health for some time. She was saved Thursday, May 21, after she had fallen into a cistern near the Brady home.

A son, Sam Bayne of the Latham neighborhood, survives her in addition to the daughter. She also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Cora Gist, San Diego, Calif., and Mrs. Jesse Baysinger of near Latham; a brother, Lacy Howard, Clarksburg; two half-sisters and a half-brother.

Sedalian To Pre-Flight Training Center

Harold E. Rucker, 20 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Rucker of 910 South Grand avenue, has enlisted as a flying student in the United States Naval Reserve and has been sworn in at the Kansas City Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board. He was graduated from the Smith-Cotton high school in Sedalia in 1938, where he played in the school band and orchestra, and will graduate this summer from the Central Missouri State Teachers college at Warrensburg.

Rucker soon will be ordered to a pre-flight training induction center for three months of physical conditioning under several of the nation's leading athletic coaches, and then will begin preliminary flight training at one of the naval reserve aviation bases.

The ladies of the G. A. R. will meet at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Woodman-Macabee hall for joint memorial services for veterans and mothers which will be in charge of the chaplain, Miss Nettie Barnett.

The regular business session will follow the service.

Ladies of the G. A. R. will join other patriotic orders in the Memorial Day ceremonies at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at Crown Hill cemetery.

Funeral services for Walter John Reinert, 49, who died early Thursday at 1019 East Third street, were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at McLaughlin's chapel, with the Rev. Paul Miller, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, officiating.

Mrs. Charles Maggard, accompanied by Mrs. Mae Moser, sang "In The Garden," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Saved by Grace."

Pallbearers were Herman Myers, Cecil and Vernon Glenn, Richard Wood, John Henry Brooks and Otto Howe, all members of American Legion Post No. 16. The Legion conducted services at the grave in Crown Hill cemetery. Mr. Reinert was a veteran of World War I, serving in the U. S. navy.

May Distribute Literature

Ruling By Circuit Judge Voids Small Town's Ordinance

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 29.—(AP)—A municipality has no power to forbid the distribution of "literature" — either religious pamphlets or daily newspapers—on the public streets, Circuit Judge Warren L. White ruled here today.

The decision voided an ordinance of the town of Republic, and dismissed a city charge against four members of the Jehovah's witness sect there. The witnesses had been fined in police court for violating the ordinance, and appealed the case to circuit court, and filed a motion to dismiss.

Judge White based his ruling on the constitutional right of freedom of the press, rather than on the freedom of religion, more frequently discussed in connection with the Witnesses. He quoted from United States supreme court cases holding that the streets are "the natural and proper places for the dissemination of information and opinion," that the liberty of the press must include "pamphlets and leaflets x x x historic weapons in the defense of liberty," and that "liberty of circulating is as essential as liberty of publishing."

The judge concluded: "If the ordinance bans the distribution of religious pamphlets, then it also bans the distribution of newspapers. If there is any authority for the enactment of such a prohibitory ordinance, it must be found in the police powers of the city x x x in my opinion it restricts and abridges the freedom of the press and is not warranted as a reasonable regulation of the public sidewalks in the interest of public safety, health, welfare or convenience."

On the matter of religious freedom, Judge White agreed with a recent decision of Federal Judge A. L. Reeves given in a West Plains case. Judge Reeves held that free exercise of religion does not extend to the commercial pursuit of selling religious publications.

Sunday School Lesson

Divine Strength Upholds Human Will To Bear Burdens That Seem Impossible

Divine Strength Upholds Human Will To Bear Burdens That Seem Impossible

Text: Mark 14:32-34, 44-46; 15:1-5
By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

Bethsemane has become a symbol for acute trial and suffering. When we speak of passing through Gethsemane in connection with some minor sorrow, do we always realize that Gethsemane was a real fact in a real human life? It was in the garden called Gethsemane that Jesus experienced the anguish of soul that preceded the anguish of body as He was nailed to the Cross.

There are those who, in their zeal to do honor to the Master, have emphasized His divine nature to the exclusion of the fact of His real humanity. To do that is to miss the essential meaning of Jesus in relation to God and man, for the Gospel centers around the fact of the Incarnation as it is expressed in the Gospel of John. "The word became flesh, and dwelt among us." It is the revelation of the divine character in human life that makes the story of Jesus, from the manger in Bethlehem to the hour of Resurrection and Ascension, significant for man.

If we ever doubted the true humanity of Jesus, that He was, as the New Testament says, subject to human temptations and trials, all doubt upon that matter ought to be removed by this scene in the garden of Gethsemane. Here was a human soul facing human tragedy, with one whom He had trusted about to betray Him, and with others whom He loved and trusted proving themselves weak and inadequate in the hour of His deepest trial. His soul, we are told, was exceedingly sorrowful, and as He prayed, the inner conflict was so intense that He sweat drops of blood. Yet, in that intensity of prayer He found strength to say, "Not my will, but Thine be done," and He arose from prayer, though discouraged by the failure of His friends, able to say, "Arise, let us go forth." He was prepared for betrayal and for the Cross.

Jesus came from the agony of the garden, triumphant through prayer, with a serenity and peace in the presence of His accusers that led Pilate to marvel.

Could Jesus have meant what He has meant to mankind without that experience? It is doubtful. It is an experience that is deep in human life, and men and women in their times of trial and suffering have not only found strength and peace through the Man of Sorrows and His spiritual presence, but they have found help through following His example in prayer. The burdens that it seemed impossible to bear have been borne, and borne with faith and courage, because of that divine strength that comes to uphold the human will.

A lesson like this has particular meaning and application in a time of war and tragedy, when new Gethsemanes of suffering are present in many homes and in the lives of many individuals.

No Sidelines

There are no sidelines in this war. Men and women as well as children are linked in a mighty effort to preserve ideals based upon reverence for God and a high respect for human personality. America depends as much upon the cooperation and sacrifice of those men at home as she does upon the stamina and courage of her fighting men.

Churches as well as factories have become indispensable in the national effort. Leaders of all faiths—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—have become sources of encouragement and inspiration to individuals seeking advice and guidance in a world of rapidly-changing conditions.

Just as religion walked hand in hand with America's pioneers, so do the inheritors of the freedoms they won turn today to the spiritual for aid in preserving those liberties for the generations to come. Gone for the duration are many of America's luxuries, but religion remains as a necessity to light the path to a happier world order.

Merchants To Play On Home Diamond Saturday-Sunday

Swede McDougal's All-Nations From Kansas City Will Play Both Games

It's to be a busy week-end for the Sedalia Merchants baseball team with two games to be played—one Saturday afternoon—one Sunday afternoon—both on the Liberty Park diamond. The locals are to cross bats with the Swede McDougal's Nationals of Kansas City. Saturday's game to start at 2:30 and the same starting time for the Sunday contest.

The Nationals for the 1941 season and up to the present time have a record of 35 games won and only 11 in the lost column, which include games played in two tournaments. This season seven games have been won and only one lost by the Nationals.

Merchants Win Two
Bad weather has been hard on the Merchants this season which club has played but three games. Two of them have been won over good ball clubs while the one game lost was to a team playing exceptionally good baseball. Since that loss last Sunday the Merchants have experienced some hard practice sessions in hitting and fielding.

Johnny Thomas, right hand fast ball pitcher will take the mound Saturday. Thomas has won both his games and allowed only one run in seventeen innings. Carver will be in the catchers position for this contest.

Sunday Manager Palmer Nichols will put Shirley on the mound and shifting Weller to center field.

The lineups for Saturday:

All Nations	Merchants
L. Gray	C. F. Shirley
Stacey	2 B. Barnes
C. Stalls	L. F. Light
Ross	R. F. Zey
McDougal	1 B. Livengood
Stakley	3 B. Ellsworth
C. Gray	S. S. Small
Hamilton	C. Carver
Jones or Williams	P. Thomas

The Sunday lineup will be the same on both clubs with the exception of Shirley pitching, Weller to center field, and Jake Summers doing the receiving instead of Carver. The All Nations will use either Bryant or Hill on the mound with Hamilton receiving.

Night baseball will open in Sedalia next Tuesday night with the Merchants meeting the Jefferson City Red Birds. Thursday night they will play De Spains Motor of Kansas City.

Red Sox Into A Road Trip Losing Streak

Up-Up-Up Go The Cardinals As They Defeat Pirates 3-2

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox come close to being the worst road team in the major leagues and this malady has placed even their first division berth in jeopardy.

The Red Soxers are a real first class outfit in Fenway park at Boston, when they venture away they stumble.

The Cronin clouters were stopped 5-1 by the Washington Senators at the capital last night and now have lost 12 of their last 17 encounters, all but three away from home.

Nearing The Browns
This slump, contrasted to winning 14 of the first 21 games while playing mostly at home, has dropped Boston within a game of the fifth place St. Louis Browns.

The Red Sox were held to seven hits last night by Early Wynn, who helped win his own game by getting two singles and driving in two runs.

Another result of this contest was the loss of the American league batting leadership by Bobby Doerr, who had been hitting above .400 till this week. Last night he dropped to .379, three points behind Joe Gordon of the New York Yankees.

Gordon extended his current hitting streak to 13 games yesterday and won a 3-2 decision for the world champions over the Philadelphia Athletics by rapping a single with the bases loaded and the score tied in the ninth. The Yanks were held to 6 hits by Jack Knott, but Rookie Hank Borowy kept the A's in check even though giving nine.

Virgil (Fire) Trucks, strikeout king of the International league last year, pitched his first complete game for the Detroit Tigers and held the Cleveland Indians to four hits for a 6-2 victory. Trucks fanned six but allowed a homer by Roy Weatherly.

The St. Louis Browns rallied for four hits in the eighth inning to beat the Chicago White Sox 6-4 and gain their sixth victory in seven games.

Boston Rally Choked
The Brooklyn Dodgers set down the Boston Braves again 6-4, with Kirby Higbe pitching seven hit ball and choking off a Boston rally that netted three runs in the ninth, two on a homer by Max West.

The St. Louis Cardinals took advantage of this outcome to strengthen their hold on second place in the National league with a 5-2 eleven inning triumph over the faltering Pittsburgh Pirates, who now have lost 11 of their last 13 games.

Till the ninth it looked like another triumph for the Cooper brothers on the strength of Mort's strong pitching and a two-run homer by brother Walker Cooper in the fourth. But the Pirates put across the tying run in the ninth and brought John Beazley on the scene for his second relief victory in two days. Two safe bunts and a sharp single by Frank Crespi scored the winning run in the eleventh.

The second bunt, by Martin Marion, resulted in a close play at first, bringing an argument that caused Elbie Fletcher to be banished and an angry fan to come onto the field and attack Umpire Tom Dunn after the game—although Umpire Ziggy Sears ruled on the play.

Big Bill Lee, making a fine comeback this season, achieved his seventh victory by holding the Cincinnati Reds to six hits while the Chicago Cubs forged to a 2-1 triumph in 12 innings. Lee himself knocked in the winning run with a long fly.

Robinson Wins But Is Boomed

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, May 29.—(P)—Ray Robinson still sports the longest winning streak in recent fistic history today, but only because a referee saw one low punch where most ringsiders saw two—and boomed.

There was no doubt about the booming by the 13,673 customers who sat in Madison Square Garden last night, both when the low punches were struck in the second round, and again after the fight, when Robinson was announced the winner of a ten-round decision over baby-faced Marty Servo from Uncle Sam's coast guard.

The verdict gave Ray a winning string of 121 straight fights—89 as an amateur and 32 as a pro.

Outstanding Felterweight
It also established him as the outstanding welterweight in the ring today, outstanding even champion Red Cochrane, who is in the navy in California, and qualified the skinny Harlem Hammer for a bout with Garvey Young, the U. S. Marine titleholder from Akron Ohio, in the Garden June 11.

However, without the referee's penalty in the second round, Ray would have had a lot tougher time winning from the Schnectady slugger who carried the fight to him all the way. At the finish, Referee Billy Savanah, voted the decision for Marty. Judge Bill Healey voted for Robinson, six rounds to three with one even. Judge Tom Curley scored nine rounds for Robinson and one for Servo.

The fans showed how they felt about it by booing so long and so loud that announcer Harry Balogh couldn't introduce the next bout. The damage was done in the second heat. Robinson struck low first, as the jeers went up. Before the end of the session, Marty also hooked one into the rough. But only Servo was penalized.

The Harlem string-bean was a 1 to 6 betting favorite.

May End The Golf Tourneys For Duration

Pros Plan Campaign To Raise Funds For Army-Navy-Red Cross

By GAYLE TALBOT

ATLANTIC CITY, May 29.—(P)—Figuring that tournament golf will be ended for the duration within six weeks, the professionals are getting ready to pitch in and carry on an organized country-wide campaign to raise funds for the Army and Navy relief societies and the Red Cross.

Between rounds of their annual P. G. A. championship at the Seaview Club here, they got together last night and agreed to shoot the works. President Ed Dudley announced that the association would contribute the services of its tournament manager, Fred Corcoran, to line up benefit matches.

P. G. A. Quarter Finals
Of the eight stars competing in quarter-final matches today, six agreed to place themselves at Corcoran's disposal. The other two, Corporal Jim Turnesa and Sammy Snead, already have signed with Uncle Sam's armed forces. The program, it was emphasized, will not interfere with the match at Detroit July 19-20 between the Ryder cup team and a squad chosen by Walter Hagen, the proceeds of which will go to service charities.

On the strength of their play so far, it looks like the tournament finalists on Sunday probably will be Sammy Snead and Ben Hogan. Byron Nelson, the pre-tournament favorite, appears to be threatened with one of his rare slumps.

He predicted gloomily, himself, that Snead and Hogan would fight it out for the $2,000 first prize.

Snead looked like a million yesterday in trouncing Willie Goggin, 9 and 8. Hogan likewise beat his second round victim, Ky Laffoon, by 9 and 8.

The match today that had experts guessing was the engagement between Craig Wood, national open champion, and Jimmy Demaret, the Detroit star. Both

Execute Six In Reprisal Over Attack

Swift Action At Prague Over Shooting Chief

LONDON, May 29—(AP)—The Gestapo executed six persons in Prague Thursday in swift reprisal for Wednesday's attack upon Reichs Protector Reinhard Heydrich and took other sweeping action to put the former Czech republic under the merciless iron heel.

Heinrich, Himmler, chief of the Gestapo and perhaps the most feared man in Europe, was reported to have flown to Prague to take personal charge of inquiry and retaliation in connection with the attempt on the life of his chief aide.

The Prague radio announced tonight that Gen. Kurt Daluege former Reichspolice chief and a veteran storm troop and elite guard leader, had been appointed protector of Bohemia and Moravia in succession to the wounded Heydrich.

The appointment was made by Hitler himself, and at the same time Heydrich was named Gestapo chief for all German-occupied territory, the Prague radio said without further immediate elaboration.

The six persons executed were accused of deliberately concealing a nonregistered person "known to be engaged in activities against the Reich."

The quick executions were carried out, it was announced, under an order providing that the entire families of persons involved in the Heydrich attack shall be shot. The British radio reported that Gen. Daluege issued a decree banning all Czech meetings, sports and theatrical shows and ordering that doors of all houses must be locked by 11 p. m.

Word reached London tonight of more trouble for the Germans on another front—Norway.

The British broadcasting corporation heard that Norwegian patriots on the island of Sotra had shot and killed the Nazi Gestapo chief ruling "the western part of Norway." His name was not given.

The attempt was said to have been made several days before the attack upon Heydrich. Quoting a Stockholm dispatch the BBC said the attempt was made in the village of Televague on the island of Sotra, opposite Bergen.

Property Confiscated
"The Germans then proceeded to arrest the whole male population of the village," the BBC said. "All the families were evacuated. Their property was confiscated and their houses were set on fire." Czechs in London expected the worst to happen in their homeland.

One government spokesman estimated that the Germans had 15,000 Czechs in concentration camps in the protectorate of Moravia and Bohemia, and expressed fears they would be used as hostages as the Nazis have been doing in France.

Because of Heydrich's position in the Gestapo the most severe reprisals were expected.

The Prague radio announced tonight that some executions were carried out today, but it was not disclosed whether they were in reprisal for the attack on Heydrich.

This radio also announced that Hitler had appointed Kurt Daluege, former chief of the German police service, to be protector of Bohemia and Moravia, succeeding Heydrich, who was named Gestapo chief for all German-occupied territory. This announcement was not amplified.

All Bohemia and Moravia were being searched for those responsible for the attack and every male over 15 was ordered to register with the police by midnight tomorrow.

The decree, broadcast by the Prague radio, said German soldiers would shoot on the spot any man without a registration card after the deadline. Czech sources here expressed the belief that hundreds already have been arrested.

The man who bore the title of Reich's Protector of Bohemia and Moravia was said to be in a serious condition.

The Prague radio asserted that two men waited for hours to kill him as he rode through a Prague suburb. According to the radio, one threw a bomb and the other started shooting with an automatic rifle. One fled on foot, the other on a bicycle.

The radio said a brief case bearing the label of the White Swan, a small Prague hotel, had been found with another "object" when the men fled.

Society and Clubs

The marriage of Miss Cecelia Lena Twenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Twenter of Clear Creek, and Mr. Leo Herman Gerke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gerke of Clifton City, was solemnized Monday morning, May 25 at St. John's Catholic church at Clear Creek.

The Rev. Fr. Martin Stolberg performed the ceremony before an altar banked with flowers.

The bride's sister, Miss Florence Twenter, was her bridesmaid, and Mr. Gerke was attended by his brother, Mr. William Gerke.

A wedding dinner was served at the bride's home to the bridal party and the immediate families, and there was a wedding dance in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerke will reside in Warsaw, where the bridegroom is employed by the Missouri Pacific railroad company.

Miss Lydia Cordes of Sedalia attended the wedding of Miss Marvelee Harms, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harms, and Mr. Harvey Wodrich, Sunday, May 24 at St. Paul's Lutheran church in Concordia. The Rev. O. E. Heilmann read the service.

Other wedding guests from this vicinity were Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Kohrs, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Harms, Marcus Harms and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Viets and daughter, John Klindworth and family, all of Cole Camp, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eckhoff of Sedalia, Ed Heerman and family and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wodrich of Sweet Springs, Walter Gieseke and family of Knob Noster, and Chris Rumsick of Cole Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Wodrich will make their home with the bride's parents for the present.

The approaching marriage of Miss Suzanne Coleman to Mr. Ritchie Lee Jones of Columbia has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Coleman of Pilot Grove. Mr. Jones is a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Jones of Columbia.

The wedding will take place Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. Her uncle, the Rev. Ben Morris of Kansas City will officiate.

The following gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Von Holten of LaMonte Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. August Weller, Rev. A. J. Weller, of Nashville, Kas., Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Weller and children, Lawrence, Marie, LeRoy, Raymond, Amelia and Charles M. Weller, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Klein and children, Leonard, Rosemary, Ralph, Betty Jean, Lorraine and Ruby Klein, Lewis Kimble, of Nashville, Kas., Mr. and Mrs. Von Holten and son, Charles Williams.

The occasion was in celebration of the seventy-fifth birthday anniversary of Mrs. August Weller, celebrating a month earlier because her son, the Rev. A. J. Weller could not be present later, and it also was his tenth anniversary as a priest.

Refreshments were served during the evening.

Mrs. Elmer Caldwell was pleasantly surprised Sunday, May 24, when a number of relatives and friends gathered at the noon hour to celebrate her birthday.

Dinner was served to Mr. and Mrs. Talbert Caldwell and children, Norma and Jimmy, Mrs. Mary Glass, Mr. and Mrs. Will Davis, Mr. and Mrs. James Ellison and two children, Mrs. Henrietta Robertson, Mrs. James Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Robertson and son, Junior, all of Tipton. Mr. and Mrs. Charley Nichols of Syracuse, Mr. and Mrs. George Robertson and children, Richard and Doris Ann of Ottumwa, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Caldwell and Miss Gladys Caldwell.

The afternoon was spent in conversation and picture taking.

Nine Die As Ship Torpedoed

BARNEGAT, N. J., May 29—(AP)—Nine seamen were killed in the torpedoing of a medium-sized Panamanian merchantman off the Atlantic coast Monday afternoon, May 25, the navy disclosed Thursday.

Six of the 28 survivors were injured. They were landed here by a navy vessel a few hours after the attack.

The captain said his ship was hit by two torpedoes which crashed into the starboard side within a half minute of each other. The first struck near the propeller and the second wrecked the engine room.

The ship went down quickly by the stern, the survivors said.

New Ruling Orders Bridges Be Deported

Contention Is Made That He Was Communist

By JAMES J. STREIBIG
WASHINGTON, May 29—(AP)—Attorney General Biddle ruled Thursday that the Communist party "teaches the violent overthrow" of the government and ordered Harry R. Bridges, CIO leader in the west deported on the ground that he was a member of the party.

It was the first administrative finding that placed the Communist party in the category of organizations which "advise, advocate, and teach the overthrow, by force and violence, of the government of the United States."

At the same time, Biddle sketched the "penetrating activities" of the Communist party and named as "front organizations" the workers alliance, international labor defense, the all-American anti-imperialist league, the American Negro labor congress, and the American league against fascism.

The deportation order was a direct reversal of the unanimous finding of the four members of the board of immigration appeals who reviewed the case last fall. The board, headed by Chairman Joseph P. Fannelli, rejected completely the recommendation of Charles B. Sears, who presided at a 10-week hearing in San Francisco and canceled the deportation proceeding.

This later action was held in abeyance, however, pending a review by the attorney general. Because of the wide interest in the case—the Bridges matter has been pending since March 2, 1938—Biddle read all the 7,546 pages of testimony and the subsequent briefs before writing today's opinion.

Be Rearrested
Bridges, now free under $3,000 bond, will be rearrested under a warrant telegraphed to San Francisco immediately after the deportation order was issued. Biddle explained at a press conference that bond could be arranged immediately, and Bridges then could attack the order with a habeas corpus proceeding in federal district court. He also may appeal to the federal circuit court of appeals and to the supreme court.

In a telegram to Donald Nelson, chairman of the war production board, Bridges said:

"I wish to assure you that despite the outrageous decision of Attorney General Biddle and numerous protests already pouring in from workers, I will do all possible to offset any effect it might have on the production program and labor management unity.

"I will urge all workers and unions I can influence to redouble efforts in speeding production to win the main fight, the fight against the axis."

Bridges is president of the international longshoremen's and warehousemen's union, whose members load nearly every ship leaving west coast ports. As a vice president of the CIO and California CIO director, he also holds a position of considerable authority in shaping the policies of many other unions engaged in war work.

Although some lower federal courts have held that the Communist party advocates violent overthrow of the government, the supreme court never has ruled on that point. It has pending, however a case involving an effort to cancel the American citizenship of William Schneidermann, Russian-born state secretary of the Communist party in California, on the ground that he had concealed his Communist affiliation in seeking naturalization.

Bridges has denied consistently any membership or affiliation with the party. He freely acknowledged working with the Communists in his labor activities among longshoremen and other groups on the west coast and once opposed adoption by a central labor council of a resolution repudiating Communist organizations.

Bridges is 40 and a native of Melbourne, Australia. He reached San Francisco in 1920 and never returned to his native country. He has been active as a labor organizer since entering the United States and held a high post in the international longshoremen's association (AFL) before that group was ousted from the parent body. Then he rose in the CIO ranks.

'Work Or Fight' Policy To Fore

WASHINGTON, May 29—(AP)—Chairman Paul V. McNutt said Thursday the war manpower commission would enforce a "work or fight" policy with regard to workers refusing "suitable employment" in war industries.

Amplifying the commission's announcement that essential workers would be frozen in their war jobs to prevent pilfering of skilled labor, McNutt disclosed that the drive for workmen would be powerfully reinforced by use of the draft law.

"If a worker refused to accept suitable employment in a war industry without reasonable cause," McNutt said, "it would of course be the duty of the United States employment service to report the circumstances to the selective service system for consideration in connection with any request for deferment on occupational grounds."

Every effort will be made to "induce workers possessing critical skills to accept employment in war industries in accordance with the relative urgency of need for the product of these industries," McNutt continued, adding he believed both workers and employers were fully prepared to "sacrifice private convenience to public necessity."

Benefits To 6,460 During 1941

During 1941 awards of monthly benefits under the federal, old-age and survivors insurance system were made to 6,460 persons in Missouri, according to A. F. Silber, manager of the social security board office in Sedalia. These awards represent benefits totaling $114,687 a month, he said. In addition awards of lump-sum death payments totaling $341,552 were made to 2,979 individuals in this state last year.

Included in the monthly benefits awards, he said, were 3,028 for workers past age 65, representing total payments of $67,186 a month; 973 for aged wives of workers eligible for benefits—$11,221 a month; 1,526 for children of workers eligible for benefits—$5,631 a month; 616 for widows with young children—$11,854 a month; and 35 for parents of deceased workers—$454 a month.

Mr. Silber said that throughout the country awards of monthly benefits to workers past 65 had not increased this year as might normally be expected, partially as a result of better employment opportunities for older workers due to defense production. According to estimates of the social security board, he said, there were several times as many workers past 65 who would be eligible for benefits if they applied for them as the number now on the benefit rolls. "Many of these workers," he said, "will receive larger benefits when they do apply because they are now earning higher wages than formerly. Others who are working for lower wages should go to one of the social security board's field offices and find out whether it would be to their advantage to put in an application now, even though they do not intend to retire immediately and begin drawing benefits."

Tax Evasion To Bring Ire Of Treasury

Assessments On Many Firms And Corporations Being Revised

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(P)—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau declared tonight that some corporate officials had engaged in "particularly unpardonable attempts to escape war-time taxation," and he announced that the treasury was revising the tax assessments of offending corporations to force payment of taxes.

Morgenthau read a detailed statement to the joint house and senate committee on internal revenue taxation at an unusual night session, and asked the legislators to back up the treasury effort.

He listed seven unidentified instances in which he said company officials tried to cut down corporate incomes and excess profits taxes by paying themselves, relatives or friends, excessive salaries or other sums. He added, that he was inclined to announce the names of the corporations and officials but would leave that decision to the committee.

The instances occurred during 1941 before the United States entered the war, but Morgenthau said that made little difference because the country was engaged in the defense program at the time.

"An attempt to escape lawful taxes while we were actually at war would be only a slight degree blacker than an attempt to escape taxes which would pay for arming and equipping our army and navy when we stood in imminent danger of attack," his statement said.

Revise Assessment
In one case, he said, the owner of a company making an airplane part hired himself as the company's sales representative and paid himself $1,656,000 in salary and commissions. The treasury has revised this company's tax assessment and is asking for an additional $1,117,000 in income taxes.

In another case, he continued, a corporation asked for a tax deduction because of $1,900 paid for football tickets, $14,000 for banquets and $4,000 for photographs of social functions.

In another instance the two owners of a firm making aviation devices were said to have increased the royalty they charged their own company for the use of patents from $87,000 in 1939 to $1,179,000 in 1941.

Morgenthau described other cases as follows:

A manufacturer of forgings increased the salaries of a group of employees who were stockholders or relatives of stockholders by 523 per cent. For the year 1941 alone, the treasury disallowed $568,000 of salaries to this group.

The head of another company, making tools and dies, last year paid himself, his wife and his brother $128,000 in salaries, while dividends of the firm amounted only to $100,000.

The son and daughter of the principal stockholder in a company making equipment for plane pilots got salaries of $7,500 each although they were just out of school.

Morgenthau explained that in each of these instances, and in others which the treasury was prepared to list, companies had paid unusual amounts for salaries or other purposes in order to make the profits of the companies seem smaller, and therefore subject to smaller federal taxes.

Work Progresses At Knob Noster

Officers, in charge of the preliminary work at Knob Noster, where the Sedalia Glider Base is to be constructed by the government, are now quartered in a modern home, which belonged to John Maird, located two miles south of Knob Noster. A temporary administration building is being erected in the area, and is nearly completed.

Two water drills are working day and night on the site, and the railroad spur is being constructed, but as yet no tracks laid.

Entrances to the field, with the exception of the farm to market road that goes directly south from Knob Noster, are being guarded.

The carpenters' union has opened an office in the building formerly known as the Elliott hotel, which is on Highway 50.

Twenty Cars In Derailment Near Stover

Train On Rock Island Piles Up In A Wreck

STOVER, Mo., May 28.—Twenty cars of a west bound Rock Island freight train were derailed at 5:20 o'clock this morning three and a half miles west of Stover opposite the Dr. J. D. Kueck farm home.

Although no official announcement had been made reaching here as to the cause of the wreck it was said to have been due to a broken flange on a wheel under one of the freight cars.

The engine pulling the train and six cars remained on the tracks but other cars were piled up promiscuously side by side and some on top of each other in one instance three cars being piled up together.

The cars were loaded with merchandise, heavy construction materials and several of them with beer both in cases and kegs.

The wreck throughout the day and early part of the night attracted an enormous crowd to watch six section gang crews and wrecker workers busily engaged in clearing the tracks to get the line open, which, it was said, would be early Friday morning.

The only person injured was a transient said to have been riding one of the derailed cars and he was but slightly hurt leaving the scene before his name was secured by the early arrivals there.

The loss was variously estimated at from $100,000 to $200,000.

As a result of the blocking of the line trains were detained.

Benefits To 6,460 During 1941

During 1941 awards of monthly benefits under the federal, old-age and survivors insurance system were made to 6,460 persons in Missouri, according to A. F. Silber, manager of the social security board office in Sedalia.

These awards represent benefits totaling $74,687 a month, he said. In addition awards of lump-sum death payments totaling $341,552 were made to 2,979 individuals in this state last year.

Included in the monthly benefits awards, he said, were 3,028 for workers past age 65, representing total payments of $67,186 a month; 973 for aged wives of workers eligible for benefits—$11,221 a month; 1,526 for children of workers eligible for benefits or of deceased workers—$5,631 a month; 616 for widows with young children—$11,854 a month; and 35 for parents of deceased workers—$454 a month.

Mr. Silber said that throughout the country awards of monthly benefits to workers past 65 had not increased this year as might normally be expected, partially as a result of better employment opportunities for older workers due to defense production. According to estimates of the social security board, he said, there were several times as many workers past 65 who would be eligible for benefits if they applied for them as the number now on the benefit rolls. ## Oppose Nation Wide Gasoline Ration Plan

Charge Made That A 'False Rubber Shortage' Created

By RICHARD L. TURNER

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(P)—A group of senators, mostly from oil producing areas, began an organized campaign of opposition to nationwide gasoline rationing today by requesting that hearings be held before any action was taken.

Meanwhile, the house agriculture committee received charges that a "false rubber shortage" had been created by the giant rubber monopolies for their own post-war protection. The witness, Elliot E. Simpson, an independent rubber dealer of New York City, said the big companies have men "planted in key government positions," so that they can dictate rubber policies.

He asserted that the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, the United States Rubber company, B. F. Goodyear, the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, and the General Tire and Rubber company constituted an "economic octopus which has a stronghold on the American people's rubber needs." He gave the committee a list of some fifty employees or former employees of big companies who, he said, now hold important government positions. The latter included Arthur Newhall, rubber coordinator of the war production board.

While Simpson was testifying, Clarence R. Bittig, president of the United States Sugar Corporation, told the senate agriculture committee that Stanley Crossland, of the Rubber Reserve Corporation, a government official, had discouraged plans made by his company for producing synthetic rubber. He was told, he testified, that the oil companies had the synthetic rubber program "in the bag."

Bittig said his company had developed a process for making rubber substitutes from sweet potatoes and sugar cane, and had prepared plans for producing 80,000 tons annually. Although a plant for the purpose could be built in nine months to a year, he said, it had been unable to get priorities for the steel which would be needed.

Sensors organizing to oppose national gasoline rationing were Connally (D-Tex.) Thomas (D-Okla.), Johnson (R-Calif.), O'Daniel (D-Tex.), Ellender (D-La.), Chavez (D-N. M.), Hatch (D-N. M.), Spencer, (D-Ark.), and Doney (D-Miss.)

Ask For Hearings
Meetings today, with Connally acting as chairman, the group voted to ask Donald M. Nelson, the chairman of the war production board, to hold hearings before making gasoline rationing nationwide. Governors of the oil-producing states would testify, they said.

Gasoline rationing is in effect on the eastern seaboard where there is a shortage because of transportation difficulties. The WPB has been considering nationwide rationing as a move to conserve automobile tires.

Whatever the reason for gasoline rationing, Connally said it would be difficult to explain it to the people of states where storage tanks were brimming with gasoline. Thomas thought no appreciable saving of tires would be effected, anyway.

"If people put their cars up in garages, the cars are going to deteriorate and the tires are going to rot," he said. "They need those cars to carry on their business and with plenty of gasoline on hand, there is no reason why they should not be driving them."

Trooper Sprains Ankle In Maneuvers

Eugene Harris, a Missouri State Highway patrolman, attending the school of instruction at the Missouri State Fair Grounds, while in a run in maneuvers Thursday afternoon turned an ankle, spraining it severely. Dr. J. B. Carlisle treated the injury at the Bothwell hospital where the trooper will be a patient possibly a few days. Trooper Harris is from the Poplar Bluff district.

Bothwell Hospital Notes

Juanita Blaylock, two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Blaylock, of Granby, was admitted and her tonsils taken out. Mrs. W. G. ## Welsh Freed; Then Arrested

Prosecutor Wants Jury To Hear The Case

KANSAS CITY, May 28.—(P)—George W. Welsh, Jr., free today of a charge he hammered and hacked to death his pretty 24-year-old sister, Leila, immediately was charged again with the fiendish crime.

In a dramatic courtroom session, Justice of Peace J. J. Dougherty dismissed a first degree murder charge against the 28-year-old brother after a seven-day preliminary hearing—one of the longest in Jackson county.

County Prosecutor Michael W. O'Hern in again filing a murder charge against the youth, said he was determined to bring the brother to trial before a jury.

"The state twice has been denied the privilege of bringing George W. Welsh, Jr., to trial before a jury," O'Hern said in refiling the charge. A grand jury indictment against the youth was set aside.

Refused Bail

John T. Barker, Welsh's attorney, pleaded innocent for him on the second charge and demanded bail of Justice of Peace J. J. Hurley who denied it.

"We'll get bail," shouted Barker in anger as he turned and looked at the youth, who has been held in jail since a county grand jury indicted him in January.

Hurley, one of the eight justices of the peace in the county, set Welsh's preliminary hearing for June 15. The events were as if no preliminary hearing had been held before Justice Dougherty. The case starts from the beginning again.

Welsh enjoyed technical freedom only 40 minutes while deputy sheriffs hovered in the background.

Spectators Cheered

Spectators in the crowded little courtroom cheered as the dismissal came and the defendant grinned widely. His mother rushed to embrace him. Tears were streaming down her cheeks as she buried her head on her son's shoulder.

"I do not believe that the entire evidence as produced in the case would convince a jury of reasonable men beyond a probable doubt of the guilt of the defendant," Dougherty read from a briefly penned decision. "The defendant is discharged."

County Prosecutor Michael O'Hern, who with Attorney General Roy McKittick had paraded state witnesses to the stand for six days in an effort to build a substantial case against the youth, asked for 15 minutes to file a new charge of murder.

Trials Denied Twice

"The state has been twice denied the privilege of bringing George W. Welsh, Jr., to trial before a jury of 12 men," said O'Hern as the charge was dismissed. "In the light of the testimony that the state has introduced before Justice Dougherty in the preliminary hearing, I am determined as long as I am prosecuting attorney of this county I will use every legal means to bring the defendant to trial."

A grand jury indictment charging the youth with the crime was set aside by a circuit court judge on the ground that the jurors had overstepped their authority in their investigations. O'Hern filed the first degree murder charge after the indictment's dismissal.

Later in the day a temporary writ of habeas corpus for the youth's release was issued by Judge Nick T. Cave of the Kansas City court of appeals with the understanding Welsh would remain in jail until a ruling on the hearing was made Tuesday.

Call For 100 Reduced To 50

A call for fifty white men for induction into the United States Army, substituting for the recent call for 100, was received by the Pettis County Selective Service Board Thursday. The men will leave for induction on June 17 at 11:05 o'clock in the morning according to the call.

Plans for a demonstration in honor of this group of selectees are being discussed by the local board. Such celebrations have been suggested by the War Department.

The local board expects another call the latter part of the month for an additional 100 men from Pettis county.

A reduction of the number was made when there were not enough men already examined to answer the call.

Mexico At War Against Axis

Formalities In Declaration To Take A Few Days

BY WILLIAM D. PATTERSON
MEXICO CITY, May 28.—(P)—Mexico went to war against the axis today although the formal declaration by President Manuel Avila Camacho is not expected until Saturday.

The foreign ministry announced late in the crowded day that it had instructed all its representatives abroad to advise the governments to which they are accredited that Mexico considers herself now a belligerent ally of the 27 other United Nations.

The envoys were instructed that they should consider the war as having started when President Avila Camacho went before the special session of congress and asked its authority to declare war. It will be the first declaration of war in Mexican history.

Within an hour after the President's address the chamber of deputies received the bills authorizing the President to declare war, govern by decree and suspend parts of the constitution.

A committee will report to the house tomorrow. Observers agreed enactment would be quick and probably unanimous. The senate will then act and the President then may make his declaration.

Before the President, as he spoke today, were the Mexican flag and the battle flag the 20th regiment of the line carried in the campaign of 1887 which ended the French attempt to set up a Mexican empire under the Hapsburg Maximilian.

"We recognize the limits of our military resources," the President said, "and we know that given the enormity of the international masses now in battle that our role in the present conflict will not consist in war outside the continent."

"But we shall respond to the aggression of our adversaries, collaborating energetically in safeguarding America."

His address was greeted alternately with grave silence and tumultuous shouts of "viva Mexico!" and "viva Avila Camacho!"

The attitude of congress was at once revealed by Emilio Gutierrez Roldan, president of the chamber of deputies and presiding officer of the joint session, who said:

"We shall give all the support necessary to our government regardless of sacrifices and privations to make safe the honor of our fatherland."

Avila Camacho's address, carried throughout the nation of 20,000,000 persons, lasted 24 minutes. More than 5,000 soldiers, as well as sailors, marines, military cadets and police, lined the route the President took to and from the chamber of deputies.

Ready For Gas Defense Classes

Civilian protection against gas attack will be one of the principal subjects of the night classes being held for the training of air raid wardens in this area, and the gas defense class schedule will begin next Monday night.

Instructors have reported satisfaction with the manner in which the wardens are attending the classes to learn first aid and fire defense. Because of the eagerness of the wardens to continue with further instruction in other divisions, the fire defense course was finished last week, a week in advance of the planned schedule.

It is believed that most, if not all, of the classes will be moved to Smith-Cotton high school during the summer. However, plans for this arrangement have not been completed yet.

The gas defense classes, which will cover all phases of action to be taken during gaseous warfare, will be held beginning next week for five weeks. The first gas defense class will be held at Broadway school for Zone C.

Next week marks the beginning of the fourth week of the air raid warden training schedule.

Execute Six In Reprisal Over Attack

Swift Action At Prague Over Shooting Chief

LONDON, May 28.—(P)—The Gestapo executed six persons in Prague today in swift reprisal for yesterday's attack upon Reich Protector Reinhard Heydrich and took other sweeping action to put the former Czech republic under a merciless iron heel.

Heinrich Himmler, chief of the Gestapo and perhaps the most feared man in Europe, was reported to have flown to Prague to take personal charge of inquiry and retaliation in connection with the attempt on the life of his chief aide.

The Prague radio announced tonight that Gen. Kurt Daluege, former Reichpolice chief and a veteran storm troop and elite guard leader, had been appointed protector of Bohemia and Moravia in succession to the wounded Heydrich.

The appointment was made by Hitler himself, and at the same time Heydrich was named Gestapo chief for all German-occupied territory, the Prague radio said without further immediate elaboration.

The six persons executed were accused of deliberately concealing a nonregistered person "known to be engaged in activities against the Reich."

The quick executions were carried out, it was announced, under an order providing that the entire families of persons involved in the Heydrich attack shall be shot.

The British radio reported that Gen. Daluege issued a decree banning all Czech meetings, sports and theatrical shows and ordering that doors of all houses must be locked by 11 p. m.

Word reached London tonight of more trouble for the Germans on another front—Norway.

The British broadcasting corporation heard that Norwegian patriots on the island of Sotra had shot and killed the Nazi Gestapo chief ruling "the western part of Norway." His name was not given.

The attempt was said to have been made several days before the attack upon Heydrich. Quoting a Stockholm dispatch the BBC said the attempt was made in the village of Teleague on the island of Sotra, opposite Bergen.

Property Confiscated
The Germans then proceeded to arrest the whole male population of the village," the BBC said. "All the families were evacuated. Their property was confiscated and their houses were set on fire."

Czechs in London expected the worst to happen in their homeland.

One government spokesman estimated that the Germans had 15,000 Czechs in concentration camps in the protectorate of Moravia and Bohemia, and expressed fears they would be used as hostages as the Nazis have been doing in France.

Allied Planes Raid War Bases

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, FRIDAY, May 29.—(P)—General MacArthur's air forces destroyed four Japanese planes and damaged more than five others in attacks on Rabaul, New Britain, and Lae, New Guinea, and during a sharp sky fight over Port Moresby, the allied base in Southern New Guinea, it was announced officially today.

Two Japanese naval Zero fighters were shot down and others were damaged severely out of a force of 20 which attacked Port Moresby. Two allied planes also were lost in the dogfighting, the communique said.

The military camp at Rabaul was raided last night and three large fires were left blazing there. Three Japanese planes attempting interception were damaged, and all allied planes flew back safely to their bases.

At Lae six Japanese naval Zero fighters rose to meet the allied fighters who attacked air installations there "with good effect."

Two of the enemy fighters were destroyed and two others damaged, but one allied plane was lost.

Soviets Push Ahead In Their Slow And Interrupted March

New Ruling Orders Bridges Be Deported

Contention Is Made That He Was Communist

By JAMES J. STREIBIG

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(P)—Attorney General Biddle ruled today that the Communist party "teaches the violent overthrow" of the government and ordered Harry R. Bridges, CIO leader in the west, deported on the ground that he was a member of the party.

It was the first administrative finding that placed the Communist party in the category of organizations which "advise, advocate, and teach the overthrow, by force and violence, of the government of the United States."

At the same time, Biddle sketched the "penetrating activities" of the Communist party and named as "front organizations" the workers alliance, international labor defense, the all-American anti-imperialist league, the American Negro labor congress, and the American league against fascism.

The deportation order was a direct reversal of the unanimous finding of the four members of the board of immigration appeals who reviewed the case last fall. The board, headed by Chairman Joseph Fanelli, rejected completely the recommendation of Charles B. Sears, who presided at a 10-week hearing in San Francisco and canceled the deportation proceeding.

This later action was held in abeyance, however, pending a review by the attorney general. Because of the wide interest in the case—the Bridges matter has been pending since March 2, 1938—Biddle read all the 7,546 pages of testimony and the subsequent briefs before writing today's opinion.

Be Rearrested

Bridges, now free under $3,000 bond, will be rearrested under a warrant telegraphed to San Francisco immediately after the deportation order was issued. Biddle explained at a press conference that bond could be arranged immediately, and Bridges then could attack the order with a habeas corpus proceeding in federal district court. He also may appeal to the federal circuit court of appeals and to the supreme court.

In a telegram to Donald Nelson, chairman of the war production board, Bridges said:

"I wish to assure you that despite the outrageous decision of Attorney General Biddle and numerous protests already pouring in from workers, I will do all possible to offset any effect it might have on the production program and labor management unity."

"I will urge all workers and unions I can influence to redouble efforts in speeding production to win the main fight, the fight against the axis."

Bridges is president of the international longshoremen's and warehousemen's union, whose members load nearly every ship leaving west coast ports. As a vice president of the CIO and California CIO director, he also holds a position of considerable authority in shaping the policies of many other unions engaged in war work.

Cars Are Damaged In Colliding Thursday

Two motor vehicles were slightly damaged Thursday afternoon when they collided on Ohio avenue. A Chevrolet coupe being driven north on Ohio by J. W. Lewis, of Colo., struck the right side of a Chevrolet sedan also being driven north on Ohio by Mrs. Valeda Foster, 1301 Boonville.

The left fender of Lewis' car and the right fender of Mrs. Foster's automobile were damaged.

To The South Of Kharkov The Nazis Forced Back To New Positions

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, May 28.—(P)—The Russian armies of the Ukraine were reported again pushing forward tonight in their slow and often interrupted march on Kharkov and in the Izyum-Barvenkova sector to the south, enormous, continuing Soviet pressure was said to have halted the German counter-offensive and sent it reeling back to hard-held new positions.

This was the general picture offered in Soviet military dispatches: The mid-day communication of the Red command, however, was restrained in tone, merely reporting a consolidation of positions about Kharkov and a continuation of fierce battles to the south.

The midnight bulletin also said there were no significant changes on the front except in the Izyum-Barvenkova sector where "our troops repulsed the enemy's fierce attacks of tank and infantry." During Wednesday the Soviets said 28 German planes were destroyed compared to 18 Russian aircraft.

Violent Resistance

Detailed advices from the front, however, told of Russian advances in both areas, although only over the most violent Nazi resistance, and indicated tremendous losses in German mechanized equipment.

(The German high command claimed "an outstanding victory" in what was described as "the battle of encirclement south of Kharkov," this presumably referring to the Izyum-Barvenkova sector. It was asserted that "the enemy's last attacks aimed at relieving encircled Soviet armies have failed completely and annihilation of a few enemy groups still resisting is continuing. Up to the present hour 165,000 prisoners have been counted.")

About Izyum-Barvenkova, said Russian dispatches, the most desperate of expedients had been tried in vain by the Nazis in an effort to hold the line of a river that had marked their advanced positions.

Here, wrote the war correspondent of the official Communist newspaper Pravda, the invader in some sectors went into action with his troops disguised in Russian uniforms and his tanks bearing red stars and likewise threw in a number of "psychological" attacks in which his soldiers charged in close ranks shouting at the top of their lungs.

The Kharkov field of battle was enveloped in the heat of summer, broken by occasional rains.

Nine Die As Ship Torpedoed

BARNEGAT, N. J., May 28.—(P)—Nine seamen were killed in the torpedoing of a medium-sized Panamanian merchantman off the Atlantic coast Monday afternoon, May 25, the navy disclosed today.

Six of the 28 survivors were injured. They were landed here by a navy vessel a few hours after the attack.

The captain said his ship was hit by two torpedoes which crashed into the starboard side within a half minute of each other. The first struck near the propeller and the second wrecked the engine room.

The ship went down quickly by the stern, the survivors said.

Twelve seamen got into two lifeboats and 14 reached a life raft which had been thrown overboard. One man was picked out of the water by a navy vessel.

Private Is Held After Shooting

CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 28.—(P)—Private Charles H. Thompson, Jr., of Springfield, Mo., was held in custody today at the quarter-master replacement training center at Fort Warren for investigation in the fatal shooting last night of Private Henry McLean, 32, of Gastonia, N. C.

The public relations office at the center said that McLean, son of Mrs. Mary H. Mc

Ernest W. Baker Is Head Of The State Elks Association

Address Given At Banquet By C. E. Thompson In Convention Here

Ernest W. Baker, of this city, secretary of the Missouri State Fair, was elected president of the Missouri State Elks Association, also of the Past Exalted Rulers Association of Missouri, at the state convention which opened here Saturday.

George Klingman, Joplin, was elected vice-president from the southwest district; Edward F. Immerthal, Columbia, northeast district; Oliver F. Ash, Jr., St. Louis, southeast district; A. O. Nilles, Kansas City, northwest district; treasurer, B. B. Hannis, Kansas City; trustees, Henry C. Salveter, Sedalia, M. F. Thurston, Columbia, C. O. Harmon, Maryville.

Mr. Baker will appoint the secretary.

Herbert Maune, of Washington, was elected secretary-treasurer of the Past Exalted Rulers' Association. This association voted to use its dues to guard the vision of under-privileged children.

Three Point Program

Mr. Baker announced the following three-point program for the ensuing year:

1. That the Elks of Missouri may exist and continue to grow, it is necessary that the membership of every Lodge maintain the integrity of its ritual, and the constitution and laws of the order.

2. That new members of the highest calibre of American manhood be brought into the folds of the order.

3. That we pledge our whole effort and cooperation to the national defense and public relations commission in carrying out the full intentions of the Grand Lodge in creating it, that every resource of Missouri Elksdom be constantly in action to fulfill the destiny of the order, which its founder linked with the destiny of the country, to serve the country whenever and wherever the opportunity arises.

Opening Session

The opening session of the convention, Saturday afternoon, was presided over by M. F. Thurston, Columbia, retiring president. There was an opening prayer by Ellsworth Green, Jr., chaplain, followed by a verse of "America," a welcome by Mayor A. H. Wilks, who was presented by Eugene Hansman, Exalted Ruler, of the Sedalia Lodge. George Klingman of Joplin, responded.

Thirty-five Past Exalted Rulers attended the luncheon at Bothwell hotel, Saturday noon.

National Speaker

Addressing two hundred twenty-five Elks and guests at a banquet at Bothwell hotel Saturday evening Claude E. Thompson, chairman of the state association committee of the Grand Lodge, Frankfort, Ind., spoke of the battle fields of the present war and of previous American wars, and said that when one considered the sacrifices made by those men who participated in those battles, we, as Americans should be glad and willing to make a sacrifice by having sugar and gasoline rationed, by buying bonds and in other ways. He spoke of General Pershing, of World War, No. 1, and said that the name of General Douglas MacArthur will take its place among the outstanding leaders of this war.

When this war is over, he said, and normal conditions return, the people will be better for having made the sacrifices necessary.

Speaks Of Son

He referred to the person whom he knows better than any one else, his son, now in the army air corps. That boy and I stood at the bedside of his mother, when she passed away, he said, and as we walked out he said, "It's a hard blow, dad, but she

By MRS. HAROLD CONWAY

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Grey have received letters from their sons who are in the U. S. army from the following places: Ralph, who enlisted in the regular army over a year ago and is in Alaska, wrote that he spent his leisure hours in whittling a fiddle, which after finished he sold for $20. He likes the climate and army training in Alaska. Chester another son enlisted two years ago in April and is an engineer on a large battleship stationed in Australia, where he has been since shortly after enlistment. Clarence the third son is in the navy serving somewhere on the high seas. Miss Maurice Gwendlyn Wheeler a former neighbor of the Greys is a nurse in the army hospital in Alaska where Ralph serves as an orderly in the same hospital.

Ray Tagtmaier has gone to Colorado Springs where he has a defense job. Mrs. Tagtmaier will join him this summer for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindy Van Horn, of Warrensburg, were guests over the week end of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Cordry.

The junior class and sponsor, Mr. and Mrs. Maupin Mitchell of Kansas City is spending the week with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Cordry.

Charles Aldredge of Sedalia, a former resident of Hughesville who is in the army hospital corps and who has been stationed at Salt Lake has been sent to Brooklyn, N. Y.

Lieutenant Ellis Neef of the U. S. Army Air Corps who has been stationed in Albuquerque, N. M., for the past few months has been sent to Salt Lake Utah.

The Hughesville school board has met and reappointed all the teachers in the school system of the past year as follows: Superintendent-Glen R. Snider, head of manual training and science; Chester Crain, head of commerce and English department; Miss Jean Neef, head of music and mathematics; Miss Geraldine Johns, grades 1 through 8 inclusive; Miss Mary Dook, Miss Grace Cirdry, Miss Miriam Nell Rages, Mrs. Glen Snider.

The junior class and sponsor Mr. Crain, entertained the members of the senior class and members of the faculty with a steak fry at Liberty park followed by a line party at the Fox theatre, on Tuesday evening.

Roy Conway who left with Mrs. Conway at Christmas to spend the winter months in New York, writes that he has a defense job in New York and will remain for the duration.

The following members of the senior class were in the play "American Transport" given Friday eve: Junior Kincheloe, Barbara Harvey, Dolores Strader, Glen Stevenson, Coralie Fitzsimmons, Thelma Keele, Kathryn Rages, Vernon Burton, Paul Mul-liniaux, Allen Raines, Johnny Harper, Russell Darling, Gertrude Morris and Vernon Schneek. The play was directed by Miss Neef and was outstanding in its dramatic interpretations.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Patison who were injured in an automobile accident last October, and who have been in hospitals and at the home of their daughter Mr. Joe Castell of Raytown since that time, returned to their home in Houstonia on Sunday. Rev. Patison is pastor of the Methodist churches at Houstonia, Hughesville and Bethel. Rev. Patison presided over the Methodist church conference of the three churches which was held at the Bethel church on Sunday afternoon, attended by members from the three churches and conducted by Dr. Havighurst, district superintendent of Sedalia, Marshall district.

Chester Craine will leave Sunday for St. Louis where he has a defense job during the summer vacation.

Mrs. Edwin Hemphill, of Bartlesville, Okla., is a guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Kincheloe and Mr. and Mrs. George Hemphill. Mrs. Hemphill expects to remain here two weeks before returning to her home in Bartlesville. She is attending the graduating exercises of her brother, Junior, at the Hughesville high school.

Miss Francis Fisher, of Sedalia, is visiting her sister Mrs. Charles Rages, Mr. Rages and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Snider, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Higgins, of Houstonia, will motor to Fort Sil, Okla., where they will spend the week end visiting with their brother and son Tuck Higgins.

At the commencement exercises on Wednesday evening Mr. Snider stated that the senior class of 1942 had the largest number of graduates ever to graduate from the Hughesville high school. There were 19.

Police Court Cases

Floyd Dickey, of near Hughesville, arrested by Sedalia police for intoxication Sunday, pleaded guilty in police court Monday and paid a $5 fine.

Allie Goff, Julia Spears and Tom Craig, all of Sedalia, charged with drunkenness Saturday were fined $5 each by Police Judge C. W. Bente in court that morning and unable to pay were committed to the city jail.

Miss Janet Stanley is spending the weekend with her sister, Miss Genevieve Stanley, a student at the university, in Columbia.

Windsor

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Ayres and Sammy Tell Morrow spent Sunday in Kansas City with Mrs. Martel Morrow and Miss Cornelia Ayres.

Members of the H. B. M. club were entertained Friday night at the apartment of Mrs. Frank Silver. Contract bridge was played following a dessert course. Trophies were awarded Mrs. Walter Moser and Mrs. Stedman Jordan. Others present were Mesdames Henry Hendrickson, Robert Moss, Kenneth Marti, Arlo Vincent, Lloyd Merryfield, Edgar Alexander, Ralph Allen, Henry Ira, Beverly VanSlyke, Eldon Sutherland, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Breece are here from Mt. Pleasant, Mich., to visit the former's mother, Mrs. C. W. Breece and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Breece and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Williams motored to Joplin last week where they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Crone and from there went to Tulsa to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams.

Commencement exercises of the high school were held Friday evening with twenty-nine graduates receiving diplomas. The following program was given: Processional, Ruth Elliott; invocation, Rev. Timbrook; trumpet solo, Elyne Stanfield; trumpet solo, Herbert Cannon; selection by Girls' Glee club; Class address, Dr. William F. Knox; cornet trio, Earline Stanfield, Dan McMillen, Herbert Cannon; two selections, mixed chorus; presentation of diplomas and awards, F. L. Douglas; benediction, Rev. E. F. Dillon; recessional. Valedictorian was Herbert Cannon; salutatorian, Georgia Bridges.

A. B. Winzenreid left Saturday for his home at Ft. Collins, Colo. Mr. Winzenreid had brought the remains of his wife who recently passed away. Funeral services were held here last Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jennings of Salem, Ill., spent Saturday and Sunday here with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Jennings. They visited a short time in Columbia with the latter father, Ralph Smith, who is in the hospital there for treatment.

John Wyatt Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Harris, of Windsor, will graduate Saturday from the Georgia School of Technology at Atlanta, Ga. He will receive his Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering. Mr. and Mrs. Harris left Thursday for Atlanta to attend the commencement exercises. After graduation John Wyatt will return home with them for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Nine of Kansas City came last Wednesday for a short visit. Dan remained for a few days fishing trip while his wife motored to Crane, Mo., to see her grandfather who is very ill.

Charles Wells who has been employed in Windsor returned to his home at Montrose where he will have employment.

The annual teachers breakfast was held in the garden of the L. T. Hoback home Saturday morning. Miss Rinnie was the honored guest and was the recipient of a nice gift. Miss Rinnie has resigned her position on the faculty of the high school.

The B. P. and W. club met at the home of Mrs. Huston last Monday evening. Mrs. L. T. Hoback, chairman of the program committee had charge of the program. Mrs. Hamlin read a paper on "The Land We Love". Mrs. Hoback gave a talk on "The Daring of Faith". Miss Myra Davis, president of the club announced the appointment of Mrs. Hoback as chairman of the program committee for the coming year.

Mrs. Mattie Mantonya, of Windsor, and Jake Wyre of near Windsor were married last week at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. Dillon at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Dillon had decorated the home with flowers and the couple stood under an arch of flowers and wedding bells.

Mrs. Roy Milam played special music. Guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Smart, Mr. and Mrs. James Sole, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bell and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Uhlenbeck and family and Mrs. Dillon and Mildred. The couple will reside on the Wyre farm near Windsor.

For the past several years the Windsor Future Farmers of America have looked forward to a camping trip as soon as school is out. This year nine boys and J. A. Comer, their instructor, spent three days on the Osage river at Horse shoe Bend. Mr. Comer has an interest in a cabin known as the N. B. C. cabin about eight miles east of Osceola and it was there that the boys spent their time. Due to bad weather the river was up and it rained one night spoiling some of the fun, but enough fish were caught to furnish all they could eat. Time was spent in boating, pitching horseshoes and hiking and a few of the hardier ones even went swimming. During the school year the F. F. A. sells candy and this helps to finance such a trip, cabin rent and transportation is paid out of the treasury and each boy pays enough to buy food. This year the expense amounted to two dollars per person. Those going were Bob Howard, Jim Hand, Calvin Harms, Leo Barbour, Leon Barbour, Jack Clark, Harold Gehrig, Roy Anderson and Randall Smart. The trip was made in a car furnished by Mr. Comer and a trailer loaned by C. O. Howard.

Displays By Sedalians At Warrensburg

Outstanding Work Shown At Close Of College Term

Five students from Sedalia displayed work at the annual exhibit of the fine arts department of Central Missouri State Teachers' college, Warrensburg at the close of the term. Only outstanding pieces for the year are chosen for this exhibit.

Mrs. Jane Bast Henderson, 807 West Seventh street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Bast, exhibited four water colors, one depicting a windmill another the portrait of a child; a design for stationery; and a series of monograms.

Several Water Colors

Miss Bernadine Ezell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Ezell of South Barnett, showed eight water colors, size 15" by 18", one was of a tree on the way to Pertle Springs, another was of a farm scene showing the barns and silo; block print wall hanging of a spanish design; a letter sampler; a modernistic design of surface enrichment, which may be used for wall paper or textile design; and a model studio apartment in which Miss Ezell had constructed each tiny bit of furniture for her ideal living quarters.

Wall Hanging

Costume Designs

Miss Henrietta Lamm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Lamm, exhibited five costume designs for stage dress, five water colors 15" by 18", one showed the little white church across from the campus in the setting which Miss Lamm would like to see it, another depicting mood, showed a much-suffering Mexican woman; a design for beach costume showing the use of combinations of different materials, Miss Lamm used a black and white print edged with red.

Modernistic Design

Miss Eleanor Leiter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira A. Leiter, showed a modernistic design to be used either for textile or wall paper pattern.

Harold Rucker, son of Mr. E. W. Rucker, 910 South Grand, exhibited a model kitchen in blue and white. Rucker advised with the faculty of the Home Economics department so designed a practical as well as artistic workshop.

Time To Be On Guard On Insect Pests Has Arrived

Protection For Various Crops Is Necessary

Everyone should be on guard daily for insects that are destructive to both field crops and vegetables says J. U. Morris, County Extension Agent. Nothing is more concerning than to have some insect pest destroy a good prospect for a fine garden. Watchfulness is the key word and doing the right thing at the right time is certainly necessary. It may mean the difference between the saving and losing a crop.

Aphids are appearing now. They are very small, green, or black sucking insects usually found clustered on the underside of the leaves or around tender shoots. Nicotine dust or spray used as a contact spray is the best method of control.

The common bean leaf beetle is a small beetle about 1/4 inch long which eats holes in the leaves early in the season, from the underside and are difficult to find. For control, dust with calcium arsenate lime mixture, on underside of the leaves.

The Colorado potato beetle is serious on potatoes. Either calcium arsenate or arsenate of lead-lime dust is satisfactory for control. Frequent applications should be made.

The velvety green cabbage worm is harmful to cabbage and related crops such as kale, cauliflower, etc. Weekly applications of calcium arsenate lime dust should be applied as soon as damage shows up.

The large, flat, brownish black bugs 1/2 inch long found on the underside of leaves, vines, clover, etc., beneath squash, pumpkin, or melon vines are squash bugs. Trap full grown bugs under boards besides plants and crush each morning. Hand picking of egg masses and full grown bugs are helpful. Nicotine dust is effective only on young nymphs.

Cut worms which are one to one and one-half inches long, black to greenish striped worms that cut the plants off at the ground level are best controlled by using poison bran mash applied late in the evening.

Ways For Control

Poisonous dust mixtures to control garden pests include:

1. For insects eating foliage: Use 1 pound arsenate of lead or 1/2 pound calcium arsenate to 5 pounds hydrated lime and dust thoroughly. Caution—Do not use arsenate of lead on bean foliage. Use Calcium arsenate or crystalline flour mixture may be substituted for either the arsenate of lead or calcium arsenate for beans.

2. For insects sucking out plant juices and causing plants to wilt: Use nicotine dust mixture. Mix at the rate of 2 tablespoons of nicotine sulphate in 1 pint hydrated lime. (This is the same rate as 1 oz. to 1 lb.) Mix the nicotine and lime in a syrup pail with a tight lid. Six to eight small stones placed in the bucket will help mix the materials. Shake 15 to 20 minutes. Apply the nicotine dust during the warm part of the day and when little wind is blowing.

3. For grasshoppers and cutworms:

Use poison bran mixture at the rate of 1 qt. dry bran with 2 tablespoons Paris green (either white arsenic or sodium arsenite may be used in place of Paris green). Mix and hold water in a container that will hold water. Pour 1 1/2 cups of water over the poisoned bran and mix thoroughly until every flake is moistened. The mixture should be crumbled when squeezed in the hand. Apply in early morning for grasshoppers and in late evening for cutworms, scattering very thinly and evenly over the ground. The above quantity should cover about one-sixth acre.

*When white arsenic or sodium arsenite is substituted for Paris green, dissolve poison in water and molasses instead of mixing with dry bran.

There should be no danger to health from the use of arsenical materials on plant foliage, providing they are not applied during a period of at least three weeks prior to the use of the fruits and vegetables.

Mange Cuts Hogs Weight

Heavier Feed In Fattening Them Methods To Give

Mange not only reduces the market value of hogs, but it takes more feed and greater length of time to produce a hundred pounds of gain in a mangy herd of hogs than in a herd free of mange parasites. Although pigs, young stock and old poorly nourished animals of low vitality suffer most from mange, the disease often attacks vigorous mature hogs and causes great losses. The losses are caused by irritation, arrested growth, unthrifty conditions, decreased vitality, and functional disturbances. The disease, however, can be eradicated and the losses reduced to minimum.

Mange is caused by a small mite that penetrates the skin and causes an irritation. This irritation results in extreme annoyance to the hog and it continuously rubs and scratches against some object. The irritation of the mites in the skin results in a thickening of the skin, particularly on the ears, head and neck, on the hocks, and the rear end of the animal—although the entire body may be affected in some animals.

Common mange of hogs is contagious and is usually spread by direct contact with an infected animal. The disease may show up in eleven to fifteen days after the animal has been exposed to the mange mite.

Oil Used Successfully

Lice and mange on hogs can be controlled by dipping in either oil or lime-and-sulphur dips. Crank case oil is commonly used successfully for treating hogs. It is usually available and can be purchased at a low cost. It is advisable to add one gallon of kerosene to each 10 gallons of crank case oil that is used, as the addition of kerosene will make the oil more effective.

If the hand treatment is used, it is advisable to put the hogs in a small enclosure and then sprinkle them with the oil from a sprinkling can being sure to cover all parts of the hog with the oil. Freshly oiled or greased hogs should not be moved rapidly, exposed to bright sunlight, or allowed to become chilled, as injuries to the animals may result.

Lime-and-sulphur dip is effective in eradicating hog mange when four or more dippings are given at intervals of six or seven days. In dipping hogs for mange, the lime-and-sulphur dip should be warm when used, and the temperature of the dip when the hogs are in it should be maintained at 95 to 100 degrees Fahrenheit. Hogs should be held in the dip at least three minutes.

Hogs that are treated for mange and lice either with oil or lime-and-sulphur dips should be moved to clean grounds and held there for at least thirty days. The old quarters should be thoroughly cleaned out and all litter spread out on ground that is going to be planted to some crop. The inside of the hog house should then be sprayed with the oil or lime-and-sulphur dip to kill any mites that may be present.

Preparation Of Berries For Freeze Locker

Best To Use Well Ripened But Solid Fruits In Process

The results of an experiment on placing strawberries in the freezer locker with varying amounts of sugar which was conducted by Miss Virginia Lee Slusher, Home Supervisor of the Farm Security Administration and Miss Dorothy Bacon, Home Demonstration agent, indicates that strawberries may be placed in the locker even without sugar and still be usable; however, these home economists recommend that if at all possible the berries be mixed with 1 part sugar to 4 parts of berries. Or 1 part sugar to 8 parts berries, all measurements made by weight.

Part of the berries were mixed with white syrup 1 part to 4 of berries. No flavor change was noticeable, however, berries mixed with honey in the same proportion had a definite honey flavor.

Since the demand for white syrup and honey is so great and they are more expensive than sugar, they are not practical.

Other berries were tried with 1 part sugar to 6 parts berries and one part to 16 parts. There was only a minor difference, if any, in the preservation of shape of the berries with little or so sugar. Since these berries were well ripened sweet berries they were palatable without added sugar.

Best To Use Little Sugar

Since these berries were left in the locker less than one week there is a possibility of flavor, color or texture changes over a longer period of time. Rather than to let home grown berries go to waste or to let the family go without strawberries during the winter months, it would be well to freeze them with the least amount of sugar available, however, since one pound of finished canned fruit and an additional pound of sugar for each member of the family for preserves, jams, jellies, and butters will be available in the near future homemakers should not skimp too much on the berries and cherries which they freeze now.

The procedure for preparing fruits for freezing is to select well ripened fruits with no bruises, wash, stem, or pit, and pack as quickly as possible to prevent the growth of any bacteria. Strawberries, black raspberries, and cherries may be packed dry by mixing 1 lb. sugar to 4 lbs. berries by weight and stirring lightly occasionally until the sugar dissolves, then pack into cold jars which have been sterilized or in waxed cartons made for freezing. Seal tightly and take to a quick freeze compartment. If they must be held overnight, keep them as cool as possible.

Glass jars should have 1 1/2" headspace. Paper cartons 1 1/2" headspace.

Syrup pack may be used if preferred to dry pack. To do this cover the fruit with cold sugar syrup using 3 1/2 cups sugar to 1 quart water. Cherries should have about twice that much sugar if possible.

Red raspberries, peaches, and plums should always be frozen in syrup pack rather than dry pack.

Syrup Used To Save Sugar

The LaMonte Homemakers Extension club in their May meeting used "How to Conserve Sugar" as a roll call topic. Some of the members had prepared the dishes to serve at the covered dish luncheon that noon and then gave the recipes in answer to roll call. Others only gave the recipes. Some of the recipes given are: Chocolate cake, Mrs. E. R. Brown. Beat together with an egg beater 1/2 cup shortening, 1 cup syrup, and 2 eggs. Sift together 2-3 cup flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder, and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Beat ingredients into the other mixture while adding 3/4 cup of sour milk. This makes a thin batter, which when baked in a moderate oven makes a very delicious cake.

Mrs. C. E. Carroll gave the following suggestions for serving fresh strawberries: 3 qts. of berries, 1/2 cup of sugar, 1 cup of syrup, and 8 marshmallows. Cut the marshmallows into small pieces, mix with the syrup and sugar and pour over the berries. This may be served with or without cream or as shortcake.

Mrs. Leonard Reavis gave a recipe for ice cream. 20 marshmallows dissolved in 1/2 cup of peach juice, and 1 cup of crushed peaches. Let cool. Fold in 1/2 pint of whipped cream and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Chill and serve. She suggested 1 cup of juice might be used instead of 1/2 if this was frozen rather than chilled.

Mrs. Geo. Swope gave a recipe for cake frosting. 3/4 cup syrup boiled 3 minutes and poured over two beaten eggs whites. Beat while adding the syrup.

Mrs. Clyde Swope recommended the use of dark syrup in 7 minute frosting.

Other recipes were given by other women, but were not available for this publication.

Production Of Sugar Beets

(In order that citizens of this area may have a thorough understanding of efforts of the Department of Agriculture to relieve the sugar shortage through increased sugar beet production, B. C. Claycomb, Pettis county AAA chairman, has issued the following statement):

Through the 1942 program, maximum sugar beet production is encouraged. AAA payments of 80 cents per hundred weight, for sugar processed from beets, are offered producers of this crop. Increased planting will mean larger total payments.

In the sugar beet industry there are two fairly rigid ceilings above which production cannot profitably go. One is the capacity of sugar refineries. The other is the matter of competing crops, particularly potatoes, beans, canning peas and tomatoes, which in some cases can be grown more profitably than beets. Additional limitations include the labor supply and the tire shortage. Beets must be transported by truck to processing plants.

Sugar beet growers have indicated they will plant 983,000 acres this year, an increase of 24 percent over 1941.

Sugar beet production for specified periods follows:

Average 1925-29, 1,066 thousand tons.

Average 1930-34, 1,396 thousand tons.

1939, 1,758 thousand tons.

1940, 1,884 thousand tons.

1941, 1,600 thousand tons.

With present favorable prices for sugar, processors are expected to contract as much acreage as possible within the limits of their plants capacity. In addition, all planting restrictions have been removed and a special call has been issued to farmers in sugar beet areas to increase the acreage of that crop.

Hoe And Spade Club In Meeting

The Hoe and Spade 4-H club of Manila held its regular meeting on May 15. The meeting was opened by the members repeating the 4-H club pledge. The study program for the meeting was on how to take care of gardens. Games were played under the direction of Esie Mae Hempton. Some time was spent in singing. Refreshments were served before the members adjourned to meet again on May 29. This is a Victory garden club in which the members are working hard toward growing some good food to be canned.

Signed, Billie Hampton, Reporter.

Early American Indians planted their corn crop when the leaves of the white oak were "the size of a mouse's ear."

Suggestions for Victory Garden

Make Additional Plantings of Beans

Bush beans are in their most delicious eating stage when they are small, and before the beans become developed in the pods. If eaten when the pods are small and tender they class as a green or yellow vegetable in the diet.

In order to have beans in this best eating stage over a long period during the season, it is necessary to make succession plantings. Six different plantings should be made at 15-day intervals up to the 15th of June, and another planting made the middle of August for fall beans. This means that at least three more plantings can be made, on dates varying somewhat in different sections of the state, but roughly on the first of June, the 15th of June, and the 15th of August.

The same varieties that were used for the early plantings will be used. For green bush beans, the Stringless Green Pod, Full Measure, and Tender Green are very successful in Missouri. Of wax varieties, the Pencil Pod Wax, the Brittle Wax, and Sure Crop are outstanding.

Shallow Cultivation for Potatoes

Shallow cultivation is desirable for all vegetable crops including potatoes. It is particularly important that cultivation be shallow after the tubers start setting on, which will be from the time plants are in bloom.

From this time until the potatoes are mature the yield will depend largely upon the amount of food which the feeder roots can gather for the plant to store in the potato.

Many of these feeder roots will be in the top six inches of soil, therefore, it is particularly important that all cultivation be shallow to avoid cutting off any of the feeder roots, and in turn reducing the yield.

Summer Care of New Rhubarb Plantings

New rhubarb plantings set this spring with sturdy, healthy roots often have vigorous stems and leaves developed by this time of year. It is a temptation to pull some of these stalks to taste the new plantings.

Rhubarb sends out its shoots and develops its stalks each year from the food which was stored in the roots previously. With the new planting the stalks which have grown this year from this spring's setting are from the food which was stored in the roots when they were set. To pull these off now will handicap those

Q. How will the government program for controlling the cost of living affect farm people?

A. It will keep the cost of living from spiraling upward. The price control program sets the highest price charged by each seller during March to any commodity as the most he can charge for that commodity in the future.

Q. Will price control restrictions be placed on farm products?

A. Not on raw and unprocessed agricultural commodities.

Q. Who will advise rural people concerning price control regulations?

A. State and county USDA War Boards, representatives of Department of Agriculture Agencies, schools and local organization of the Office of Civilian Defense.

Q. What are some of the farm products not affected by the control order?

A. Eggs and poultry, all milk products, flour, mutton and lamb, leaf tobacco, and live animals.

Q. Do price ceilings apply to all processed agricultural products?

A. Nearly all products that have been slaughtered, frozen, dried, canned, preserved, milled, crushed, strained or shelled are regulated.

Q. What do farmers have to gain from the control order?

A. Every farmer who farmed during and after the last war remembers the disastrous results which followed the period of high prices. The control order gives assurance that farm prices will remain near the parity level. At the same time, wholesale and retail prices are to be controlled before further advances occur in the cost of items which must be purchased for home and farm.

roots from becoming well established, and will not only cut down next year's production but will increase the time necessary for the plantings to become well established and make high production.

Time to Quit Cutting Asparagus

Strong, vigorous asparagus shoots are the result of well established roots which each year are able to develop tops after the cutting season is over. These tops allowed to grow will manufacture food which will be stored in the roots for next year's production.

Even on well established plantings, cutting should cease at the end of six or eight weeks. Then well rotted manure to which has been added some complete commercial fertilizer such as 4-16-4, or some superphosphate and lime should be applied. This should be worked in to the soil as deep as possible without injuring the roots. At this same time, of course, all weeds will be destroyed, and following this the tops of the asparagus should be allowed to grow the rest of the season without being cut or bothered.

Conserve Moisture by Keeping Down Weeds

The greatest moisture loss in vegetable production is apt to be through weeds which are not controlled in their seedling stage. Shallow cultivation which stirs only the top soil and destroys seedling weeds is one of the greatest moisture conserving practices.

If the weeds are allowed to grow and develop their root systems and leaves they compete with the vegetables for the food and moisture which is available. The successful producer of vegetables will see to it that weeds do not rob them of their food and moisture. By shallow cultivation he will destroy the weeds in their seedling stage and thus conserve food for his vegetables—and his family.

Control Cabbage Worms

The white butterflies and their offspring, the light green cabbage worms are here earlier than usual this spring. These pests, unless controlled, will soon riddle the cabbage leaves and attack related crops such as kohlrabi and broccoli.

Hand-picking the worms off the plants may be successful where these crops are grown on a very small scale, but in most cases a sprayed will soon pay for itself in the saving of time and labor. The worm is easily killed with a poisonous spray or dust. Arsenate of lead is most widely used, while calcium arsenate may be used, as may also cryolite.

When using either arsenate of lead or calcium as a spray, make the water soapy and add the poison at the rate of one tablespoon to each gallon of water. An equal amount of lime may be added. For a dusting mixture, mix one part of poison with five parts of lime.

For spraying with cryolite, use one tablespoon of this material to each gallon of soapy water, but when used as a dust it should be mixed one part of cryolite with 5 parts of flour instead of lime.

Every gardener should ask his county agent for a copy of Missouri Experiment Station Circular 226, "Controlling Garden Insects."

Uses Syrup To Can Berries

The conservation of wild gooseberries is a very timely subject and is one which Mrs. R. G. Franklin of the South Abell Community practices regardless of the amount of sugar which she can get to use in preserving them.

Mrs. Franklin has canned gooseberries by using one part of syrup to two parts of gooseberries. She says this is sufficiently sweet for pie making. Many women who have felt they could not save the gooseberries this year, no doubt, will be interested in trying out Mrs. Franklin's recipe. The syrup may be either dark or light. Some people may prefer the dark syrup in the same way in which they prefer brown sugar with gooseberries. The procedure for canning these berries is to heat the one part of syrup to the boiling point, drop in the two parts of stemmed gooseberries, bring to a boil, then pack in sterilized jars and process in the water bath for 20 minutes. Next winter these gooseberries will be delicious in a pie or as a shortcake.

Mrs. Jess Fairfax of the South Abell club reports a syrup cake which her family likes. It is as follows: Cream together 1/2 cup shortening, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, and 1 cup of white syrup. Add two eggs, 1 at a time and beat. Sift together 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 cups flour, 2 1/2 teaspoon baking powder. Add alternately to the previous mixture with 1/2 cup of milk and 1 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Bake in a moderate oven.

Mrs. Fairfax frosts her cake by using 1/2 cup honey cooked to

Rural Life Problems

How to take care of every day work clothes seems to be a problem of the present and may be a problem of the future. Proper laundrying methods can do as much to save materials as any other one thing. In the first place, clothing should never be placed in the laundry until torn places have been mended and stains removed.

Many small tears are made larger and stains made permanent by the careless placing of a garment in the laundry bag. Clothing should be separated by material, then by dark from light, and last by the very dirty to the slightly soiled.

White cottons and linens should be washed first and be followed by the colored clothes. Soaking of clothing for 20 minutes has been found to loosen dirt so that laundrying will be easier, however, a longer soaking period will have a tendency to swell the meshes of the clothing and the dirt until it is harder to separate the dirt from the clothing.

The wash water should never be too hot to place the hands in it. A good many people ruin clothing by washing them in very hot water. The suds should be made before the clothing is placed in the water and should be sufficient that the latter will remain on top of the water. The motion which keeps the water going through the clothing so as to wash out the dirt particles should be continued long enough to carry out all the dirt particles. Short washing periods often leave dingy clothing. Clothing should be completely rinsed so that none of the suds remains in the material. This may mean from 1 to 5 rinsing waters.

Rinse Water Cooler

The first water should be about the same temperature as that of the suds. The rinse water may gradually become cooler until the last one will be about the same temperature as the air in which the clothing is dried.

Care in wringing clothing so as not to tear off buttons and other fastenings will also help to conserve materials. Zippers should always be closed before washing.

Boiling is not recommended because boiling breaks down the tissues of the material, and will tend to cause the garments to wear out more quickly. There are a few cases in which boiling is necessary in order to disinfect.

Bleaches used too frequently may also weaken the fabric. It is to be remembered that soiled garments wear out more readily than clean ones because the dirt particles cut the fibers, however, it is also to be remembered that poor laundrying methods can cause much damage.

The methods by which garments are hung on the line have much to do with the wearing time. For example, if sheets are hung by the hems instead of thrown across the line, the strain does not come at the part which normally receives the most wear. The life of such articles as sheets and other lines can be lengthened by folding as they are taken from the line and not ironing. If the creases of folds are made in different places at different times this also will help to prevent breaking in one place.

Heat Weakens Fibers

The heat from a iron as well as the pressure tends to weaken the fibers and over a period of years cause a break. Ironing on the straight of the material rather than in every direction helps to keep the material straight and to prevent undue strain on the fiber. If clothing which must be ironed, it should be sprinkled and rolled while still damp and allowed to stand at least a half hour, then may be ironed more easily. Leaving the clothing over night or for a longer period of time in warm weather may cause mildewing which is a waste of material.

The ironing board should be well padded and smooth in order to prevent any damage or undue pressure on the fabric.

250 degrees, or to the hard boil stage, and beaten into 1 egg white which had been previously beaten.

Deadline June 1 On Allotment

June 1 is the deadline date for making application for a new 1943 wheat allotment, B. C. Claycomb, chairman of the Pettis county Triple-A committee stated. AAA regulations make it possible for any farmer who had no wheat allotment in 1942 and plans to seed wheat in the fall of 1942 and feels he is eligible for an allotment in 1943 to file a request at the local

Fight On To Curb Diseases Of Poultry

Raisers Urged To Put Up Battle To Kill Parasites

Pettis county poultry raisers are likely to have a private war on their hands in the next few days or weeks, according to County Agent J. U. Morris. These private wars, when multiplied, assure real importance in success of the Food for Freedom program and our whole war food effort. Mr. Morris refers to the parasite and disease problems that always multiply at this season for poultry raisers.

All poultry raisers are urged to take the offensive as the best defense against these parasites and the losses in food production and profits they cause. Round worms and tape worms and the parasite that causes coccidiosis are all more prevalent and multiply more rapidly when soil temperatures are high. These parasites increase feed costs, retard growth, and result in poorly developed pullets.

Mr. Morris states that offensive maneuvers to "clear out" these enemies are simple, direct, and effective. He urges every poultry raiser to provide a range shelter for each 125 pullets and locate it on clean ground where green feed, in the form of legume crops or sudan grass, are provided. Pullets that are given the advantage of these conditions can win battle after battle from these parasites.

Quick Action Needed

Immediate action is needed, however, coccidiosis may strike growing pullets at any time. The serious after effects of coccidiosis are worth consideration. This disease not only causes young stock losses, but it is the seat of many other disease troubles, death losses, and less profitable winter production in laying flocks.

Permanent damage comes from the "shock troops" of this parasitic army—that is the soil harbored coccidia and worms. That is why real offense must begin with the building of a range shelter and its location on clean ground where poultry has not been intensively raised for two years.

AAA office. The request will be acted upon by the committee.

If a farm has had a wheat acreage allotment for the past three years, 1940 to 1942, but no wheat has been seeded during that time, the allotment for 1943 will automatically be eliminated. However, application may be made for a new allotment. All requests must be on file in the county office by the deadline date, Claycomb said.
